. PREFACE.

Most of the following pieces have appeared already in different journals, or in other shapes and ays, during the last twelve years. They are now gathered together into one volume, in or in that anything useful in them may be preserved and made more accessible. They are what they are here called, Hymns of Faith and Hope. They belong to no church or sect. They are not the expressions of one man's or one party's faith and hope but are meant to speak what may be thought and spoken by all to whom the Church's ancient faith and hope are dear.

HYMNS OF FAITH AND HOPE.

DIVINE ORDER

"Tis first the true and then the beautiful

Not first the beautiful and then the true.

First the wild moor, with rock and reed and post,

Then the gay garden rich in scent and hue

"Tis first the good and then the beautiful,

Not first the beautiful and then the good,

First the rough seed, sown in the rougher soil,

Then the flower-blossom, or the branching wood

Not first the glad and then the sorrowlul.

But first the sorrowful, and then the glad,
Tears for a day, for earth of tears is full,
Then we forget that we were ever sad

Not first the bright, and after that the dark,
But first the dark, and after that the bright.
First the thick cloud, and then the nambow's arc.
First the dark grave then resurrection-light.

"The first the night,—stern night of storm and war, Long night of heavy clouds and veiled skies, Then the in spinkle of the Morning star, That has the sames awake and dawn are

THE MEETING-PLACE

Where the fade I flower shall freshen
Freshen never more to face
Where the shaded sky shall and it is Brighten never more to shale
Where the sun-blaze never so
Where the star-beams coas
Where no tempest stars the relies
Of the wood, or wave, or hall
Where the more shall wak an gradues
And the noon the joy prolon.
Where the day-light dies in trag and 'Mid the burst of holy song.'
Brother, we shall meet and rest
'Mid the holy and the blest!

Where no shadow shall be wilder,
Where life's vain parade is o'er,
Where the sleep of sin is broken,
And the dreamer dreams no more

THE METTING LACE

Where no hond is ever sindered.

Partings, claspings, sob and moan
Midnight waking, twilight weeping.

Heavy noontide—all are done.

Where the child has found its mother,

Where the mother finds the child,

Where the mother finds the wild

Energy we shall meet and resource to holy and the blest t

Where the titlen wound is healed there is the surrence heart the freshness. It its brown a youth resumes. Where he love that here we lavish. On the withering leaves of time, Shill have fadeless flowers to fix on in an ever spring-bright clime. Where we find the joy of loving, ... is never loved before, Loving on, unchilled, unhindered, Loving one; and evermore. Brother, we shall meet and rest. 'Mid the hely and the blest!

THE MEETING-PLACE

Where a blasted world shall brighten Underneath a bluer sphere,
And a softer, gentler sunshine
Shed its healing splendour here
Where earth a barren vales shall blossom
Putting on their robe of green
And a purer, fairer Eden
Be where only wastes have been Where a King in kingly glas
Such as earth has never known
Shall assume the righteous sceptic
Claim and wear the holy crown
Brother we shall meet and rest
'Mid the holy and the blest

A STRANGER HERE

I miss the dear paternal dwelling.
Which ment to still undimmed recals,
A thousand early stones telling,
I miss the venerable walls.

I must the chards rot my childhood,
I must the stade of boyhood's tree,—
The clen, the path, the cliff, the wild-wood,
The music of the well-known sea

I miss the roted haunt of moonlight,
I miss the forest and the stream,
I miss the fragrant grove of noonlight,
I miss our mountain's simiset gleam

I muse the green slope, where reposing
I mused upon the near and far,
Marked, one by one, each floweret closing,
Watched, one by one, each opening star

A STRANGER HERE

I miss the well-remembered faces.

The voices, forms of fresher days,

Time ploughs not up these deep drawn traces,

These lines no ages can erase

I miss them all, for, unforgetting,
My Spirit o'er the past still stray
And, much its wasted years remaining
It treads again these shaded and

I mourn not that each early and a ls now to me a faded flow.

Nor that the magic share is book a

That held me with its myson power

I murnur not that now a ser nor a
I pass along the smaling earth,
I know the snare, I dread the danger,
I hate the haunts, I shun the muth

My hopes are passing upward, onward

And with my hopes my heart has gone.

My eye is turning skyward sunward,

Where glory brightens round you throne

A STRANGER HERE

We spirit seeks its dwelling yonder; And faith fore-dates the joyful day When these old skies shall cease to sunder The one dear, love-linked family

This is a I find years rolling o'er me,

And harrich day time's measured tread

This is a conds now stretch before me,

Below done is the darkness spread

And the moves downward in their train,
And minigh dows are fondly wetting
The lader check of earth in vain

And life with them is on the wane;

Storm-laden skies with sad complaining,
Bend blackly out the unsmiling main

My future from my past unlinking,
I ach dying year untwines the spell,
The visible is swiftly sinking,
Uprises the invisible.

To light, unchanging, and eternal,

From mists that sadden this bleak waste

To segnes that smile for ever vernal,

From winter's blackening leaf I haste

Earth, what a sorrow lies before thee,

None like it in the shadowy past,

The sharpest three that ever too thee,

Even though the briefest and the last.

I see the fair moon veil her lustic

I see the sackcloth of the san

The shrouding of each starry chapter,

The three-fold woe of earth be run

I see the shadows of its sunset,

And wrapt in these the Avenger - form
I see the Armageddon onset,
But I shall be above the storm

There comes the moaning and the sum of There comes the hot tear's heavy fall.

The thousand agonies of dying,

But I shall be beyond them all

OCIAN TLACHINGS

taisen it is in "-Pa ity 25

There rising storm! It has awakened me,
My should ring spirit starts to life intew,
It is conding sp. ry-drift, how it talls upon me,
As on the we my flower the freshening dew

That 1922 crock tringe that girds in the ocean, And calls the toam from its translucent blue. It seems to pour struct strength into my spirit,— Strength for conflict too

And these bright ocean-brids, these billow-rangers. The snowy breasted—each a winged wave,—
They tell me how to joy in storm and dangers,
When surges whiten, or when whirlwinds rave

And these green-stretching fields, these peaceful hollows,

That hear the tempest, but take no alarm, Has not their placed vordure sweetly taught me The peace within when all without is storm?

And thou keen sun-flash, through the cloud-wreath bursting,

Silvering the sea, the swird the rock the foam.
What light within me has thy pure gloun kindled."
The from the land of light that thou are come.

And of that time how bittlely art thou telling.
When cloud and change and tempest shall take wing.
Unch beam at thine prophetic of the glory.
Creation's day-break, earth's long promised spring.

Even thus it is, my God me daily teached.

Sweet knowledge out of all 1 him and see

Lach object has a heavenly voice within it

Each scene, however frombled, speaks to me

Yet out of all what strange, deep lessons rise!
Each hour is giving out its heaven sent wisdom
A message from the sea, the shore, the skies.

NO MORE SEA

A DEFENCE IS STEVEN -- (REV XXI L.)

School Ocean odly washing
The grey rock on which I lean,
Summer Ocean broadly flashing
With the lines of gold and green,
Greath swelling wildly dashing
O'er you islant-studded scene,
Summer Ocean, how I'll miss thee,
Miss the thunder of thy roar,
Miss the music of thy ripple,
Wiss thy sorrow soothing shore,—
Summer Ocean, now I'll miss thee,
When "the sea shall be no more"
Summer Ocean, how I'll miss thee,
As along thy strand I range,

NO MORE SEA.

Or as here I sit and watch thee
In thy moods of endless change,
Mirthful moods of morning gladness,
Musing moods of sunset sadness,
Whea the dying winds caress thee
And the sinking sunbeams kiss thee
And the crimson cloudlets press thee
And all nature seems to bless thee!

Summer Ocean, how I'll miss thee,
Miss the wonders of thy shore
Miss the magic of thy grandem
When "the sea shall be no more."

And yet sometimes in my rusning.

When I think of what shall, be.

In the day of earth's new glory,

Still I seem to roam by thee

As if all had not departed,

But the glory lingered still,

As if that which made thee levely

Had remained unchangeable

Only that which marr'd thy beaute,

Only that had passed away,

Sullen wilds of Ocean-moorland

Bloated features of decay.

NO MORE BEA

Only that dark waste of waters, Line ne'er fathom'd, eye ne'er scanned, Only that shall shrink and vanish, Yielding back the imprison'd land Yielding back carth's tertile hollows. I ong-submerged and hidden plains; Giving up a thousand valleys, Of the an read world's domains rearms stilt bright azme ranges, Winding roand this rocky tower, Leaving stdl on gen bright island, Sparkling like in ocean-flower. I caving still some placid stretches, Where the sun-beams bathe at noon, Le ving soll some like-like reaches, durings for the stlver moon City alt of Bloom and horror ldic vastes of endless brine, Hausts of darkings storm and danger, These shall be no longer thine Bukward clibing, wave and rippie, Wondrons scenes shall then disclose; And, like carth's, the wastes of ocean Then shall blossom as the rose

THE CHANGE

I tove you pale blue sky, it is the floor
Of that glad home where I shall shortly be
A home from which I shall go out no more
From toil and grief and vanity set free

I gaze upon you everlasting and
Up which the bright stars wander as they sho
And, as I mark them in their nightly maid
I think how soon that journey shall be runn

You silver drift of silent cloud far up
In the still heaven,—through you my pathe y
You rugged mountain-peak,—how soon your to Shall I behold beneath me, as I use!

Not many more of life s slow-pacing hours, Shaded with sorrow's metancholy line, Oh, what a glad ascending shall be ours, Oh, what a pathway up you starry blue! A journey like Elijah's, swift and bright,
Caught gently upward to an early crown,
In heaven's own chariot of all-blazing light,*
With death unfasted and the grave unknown.

THE CLOUDLESS

No shadows yonder!

All light and song,

Each day I wonder,

And say, How long

Shall time me sunder

From that dear throng?

No weeping yonder!
All fled away,
While here I wander
Each weary day,
And sigh as I ponder
My long, long stay

No partings yonder!
Time and space never Again shall sunder,
Hearts cannot sever,
Dearer and fonder
Hands clasp for ever.*

άδακουν νεμονται αιωνα.-- P ndar Olym.

None wanting yonder,
Bought by the Lamb !
All gathered under
The ever green palm,
Loud as night's thunder '
Ascends the glad paalm

THE HOME SICKNESS

"O give a said in divitas species i de lostem in the salure of the lame to require the Asymptone, Do Spar of the n

And whence this wearings-

This gathering cloud of gloom."

Whence this dull weight of lond hims.

These greedy cravings for the tomb."

These greedier cravings for the hopes that he Beyond the tomb, beyond the thin, s that die Beyond the smiles and joys that core and go Fevering the spirit with their fittin flow.

Beyond the circle where the shadows fall.

Within the region where my God is all.

It is not that I fear

To breast the storm or wrestle with the wave,
To swim the torrent or the blast to brave,
To toil or suffer in this day of strite
As He may will who gave this stringgling life,
But I am homesick t

It is not that the cross

Is heavier than this drooping frame can bear,
Or that I find no kindred heart to share
The burden, which, in these last days of ill,
Seems to press heavier, sharper, sorer still,
But I am homesick!

It is not that the snare

Is laid around for my unwary feet,
And that a thousand wily tempters greet
My slippery steps and lead me far astray
From the safe guidance of the narrow way,
But 1 am home-sick 1

It is not that the path

Is rough and perilous, beset with foes,
From the first step down to its weary close,
Strewn with the flint, the briar, and the thorn,
That wound my hmbs and leave my raiment torn;
But I am homesick!

It is not that the sky
Is darkly sad, and the unloving air
Chills me to fainting, and the clouds that there

Hang over me seem signal-clouds unfurled, Portending wrath to an unready world, But I am homesick!

It is not that this earth

Has grown less bright and fair, that these grey hills,

These ever-lapsing, ever-lulling rills,
And these breeze-haunted woods, that ocean clear,
Have now become less beautiful, less dear,
But I am homesick!

Let me then weary be!

I shrink not, murmur not,
In all this homelessness I see
The Church's pilgrim-lot:
Her lot until her absent Lord shall come,
And the long homeless here, shall find a home

Then no more wearness!

No gathering cloud of gloom,

Then no dull weight of loneliness,

No greedy cravings for the tomb.

For death shall then be swallowed up of life,
And the glad victory shall end the strife!

THE LAND OF LIGHT.

That clime is not like this dull clime of ours
All, all is brightness there,
A sweeter influence breathes around its flowers,
And a far milder air
No calm below is like that calm above,
No region here is like that realm of love,
Earth's softest spring ne'er shed so soft a light,
Parth's brightest summer never shone so bright.

That sky is not like this sad sky of ours,

'Tinged with earth's change and care.'

No shadow dims it, and no rain-cloud lowers;

No broken sunshine there!

One everlasting stretch of azure pours.

Its stainless splendour o'er these sinless shores;

For there Jehovah shines with heavenly ray,

There Jesus reigns dispensing endless day.

Those dwellers there are not like these of earth,

No mortal stain they bear,

And yet they seem of kindred blood and birth,—

Whence, and how came they there?

Earth was their native soil, from sin and shame,
Through tribulation they to glory came,
Bond-slaves delivered from sin's crushing load,
Brands plucked from burning by the hand of God

Those robes of theirs are not like these below,

No angel's half so bright!

Whence came that beauty, whence that hving glow?

Whence came that radiant white?

Washed in the blood of the itening Lamb,

Fair as the light those robes of theirs became

And now, all tears wiped off from every eye,

They wander where the freshest pastures he,

Through all the nightless day of that unfinding sky

THE SEEN AND THE UNSEEN.

ON THE GREAT EXHIBITION, 1851

Hall you burst of crystal splendour,
Sunlight, starlight, blent in one,
Starlight set in arctic azure,
Sunlight from the burning zone!
Gold and silver, gems and marble,
All creation's jewelry,
Earth's uncovered waste of riches,
Treasures of the ancient sea
Heir of glory,
What is that to thee and me?

Iris and Aurora braided,

How the woven colours shine!

Snow-gleams from an Alpine summit,

Torch-light from a spar-roofed mine.

Like Arabia's matchless palace,

Child of magic's strong decree,

One vast globe of living sapphire, Floor, walls, columns, canopy Heir of glory, What is that to thee and me?

Forms of beauty, shapes of wonder,
Trophies of triumphant toil;
Never Athens, Rome, Palmyra,
Gazed on such a costly spoil
Dazzling the bewildered vision,
More than princely pomp we see,
What the blaze of the Alhambra,
Dome of emerald, to thee?
Heir of glory,
What is that to thee and me?

Farthest cities pour their riches,
Farthest empires muster here,
Art her jubilee proclaiming
To the nations far and near
From the crowd in wonder gazing,
Science claims the prostrate knee;
This her temple, diamond-blazing,
Shrine of her idolatry.

Heir of glory,
What is that to thee and me.?

THE SEEN AND THE UNKERN

Listen to her tale of wonder,
Of her plastic, potent spell,
'The a big and braggart story,
Yet she talls it fair and well
She the gifted gay magician,
Mistress of earth, ur, and sea,
This majestic apparation,
Offspring of her soreery
Hen of glory,
What is that to thee and me

What to that for which we're waiting 1s this glittering earthly toy? Heavenly glory, holy splendour, sum of grandent, sum of joy. Not the gents that time can tarnish, Not the hues that dim and die,. Not the glow that cheats the lover, Shaded with mortality.

Here of glory,

That shall be for thee and me 1

Not the light that leaves us darker, Not the gleams that come and go, Not the mirth whose end is madness, Not the joy whose fruit is wee; Not the notes that die at sunset,

Not the fashion of a day,

But the everlasting beauty,

And the endless melody.

Her of glory,

That shall be for ther and me?

City of the pearl-bright portal,
City of the jasper wall
City of the golden payament,
Seat of endless testival
City of Jehovah, Salam
City of eternity,
To thy bridal-hall of gladness
From this prison would I flee
Heir of glory,
That shall be for thee and me

Ah, with such strange spells around me Fairest of what earth calls tair

How I need thy fairer image,

To undo the syren share!

Lest the subtle serpent-tempter

Lure me with his radiant he,

As if sin were sin no longer,

Life were no more vanity.

Heir of glory,

What is that to thee and me?

Yes, I need thee, heavenly city,
My low spirit to upbear,
Yes, I need thee, earth's enchantments
So beguile me with their glare
Let me see thee, then these fetters
Break asunder, I am free,
Then this pomp no longer chains me,
Faith has won the victory.

Heir of glory, That shall be for thee and me!

Soon where earthly beauty blinds not,
No excess of brilliance palls,
Salem, city of the holy,
We shall be within thy walls!
There beside you crystal river,
There beneath life's wondrous tree,
There with nought to cloud or sever,
Ever with the Lamb to be,
Heir of glory,
That skall be for thee and me!

ADVENT

The Church has waited long
Her absent Lord to see,
And still in loneliness she waits,
A friendless stranger she Age after age has gone,
Sun after sun has set
And still, in weeds of widowhood
She weeps a mourner yet.
Come, then, Lord Jesus, come!

Saint after saint on earth

Has lived, and loved, and died,

And as they left us one by one,

We laid them side by side,

We laid them down to sleep,

But not in hope forlorn,

We laid them but to ripen there,

Till the last glorious morn

Come, then, Lord Jesus, come 1

The serpent's brood increase
The powers of hell grow bold
The conflict thickens, faith is low
And love is waxing cold
How long, O Lord our God
Holy and true and good
Wilt Thou not judge Thy suffering Church,
Her sighs and tears and blood!
Come then Lord Jesus come!

To see Thee face to face
To share Thy crown and glory then
As now we share Thy grace
Should not the loving bride
The absent bridegroom mourn?
Should she not went the weeds of grief
Until her Lord return?
Come, then, Lord Jesus, come!

The whole creation growns,

And waits to hear that voice,

That shall restore her comeliness.

And make her wastes rejoice.

Come, Lord, and wipe away

The curse, the sin, the stain,

And make this blighted world of ours

Thine own fair world again

Come, then, Lord Jesus, come i

RETURN UNTO THY SEST

CEASE, my soul, thy strayings!

Have they brought thee prace?

Come, no more delayings

Crase thy wanderings crase

These varieties how vain 1

Wander not again

Thou hast found thy centre,
There, my soul, abide,
Never more adventure
Now to swerve aside
These vanities how vain I
Wander not again

Thou hast reach'd thy dwelling,
Safe, sure anchorage
From the perdous swelling
Of the tempest's rage.
These vanities how vain !
Wander not again.

RETURN UNTO THY REST.

Tranquil hours now greet thee,
In thy calm abode,
Gracious looks now meet thee,
From thy loving God
These varities how vain!
Wander not again

See, you star love-lighted,
Sparkles from on high,
See, you hope, love-plighted,
Cheers thy he wiest sky
These vanities how vain I
Wander not again

Watch, my soul, the glory
Coming brightly up,
Oer von forest hoary,
O'er you mountain-top
These vanities how vain!
Wander not again

'Tis the bridal morning,
Rise, make no delay.
Put on thine adorning,
Cast thy weeds away
These vanities how vain t
Wander not again.

Pierce these mists that blind thee,
Press to yonder prize,
Break the bonds that bind thee,
Rise, my soul, arise!
These vanities how vain!
Wander not again.

DAWN.

Shine down on me!
Sun of the brighter heaven,
Bid darkness flee!
Thy warmth impart
To this dull heart.
Pour in thy light,
And let this night
Be turned to day
By thy mild ray!
Lord Jesus, come,
Thou day-star, shine,
Enlighten now
This soul of mine!

Streaks of the better dawning Break on my sight. Fringing with silver edges These clouds of night. 38 DAWN.

Gems on morn's brow,
Glow, brightly glow,
Foretelling soon
The ascending noon,
Wakening this earth
To second birth,
When He slodl come
To earth again,
Who comes to judge,
Who comes to reign.

THE MORNING-STAR

There is a Morning-star, my soul,

There is a Morning-star,

'Twill soon be near and bright, the' new
It seems so dim and tar.

And when time's stars have come and gone,
And every mist of earth has flown
That better star shall rise
On this world's clouded skies,

To shine for ever!

The night is well nigh spent, my soul,
The night is well nigh spent,
And soon above our heads shall shine
A glorious firmament
A sky all glad and pure and bright,
The Lamb, once slain, its perfect light,
A star without a cloud,
Whose light no mists enshroad, Descending never.

THINGS HOPED FOR

These are the crowns that we shall wear,
When all thy saints are crown'd,
These are the palms that we shall bear
On yonder holy ground

Far off as yet, reserved in heavon,
Above that veiling sky,
They sparkle, like the star of even,
To hope's far-piercing eye

These are the robes, unsoil'd and white, Which then we shall put on, When, foremost 'mong the sons of light, We sit on yonder throne.

That City with the jewell'd crest Like some new-lighted sun; A blaze of burning amethyst, Ten thousand orbs in one,— That is the city of the saints,

Where we so soon shall stand,

When we shall strike these desert-tents,

And quit this desert-sand

These are the everlasting hills,
With summits bathed in day;
The slopes down with the living rills,
Soft-lapsing, take their way

Fair vision! how thy distant gleam Brightens time's saddest hue, Far fairer than the fairest dream, And yet so strangely true!

Fair vision! how thou liftest up
The drooping brow and eye,
With the calm joy of thy sure hope
Fixing our souls on high.

Thy light makes even the darkest page
In memory's scroll groy fair,
Blanching the lines which tears and age
Had only deepened there.

With thee in view, the rugged slope Becomes a level way, Smoothed by the magic of thy hope, And gladden'd by thy ray

With thee in view, how poor appear The world's most winning smiles, Vain is the tempter's subtlest snare, And vain hell's varied wiles

Time's glory fades, its beauty now Has ceased to line or blind, Each gay enchantment here below Has lost its power to bind

Then welcome tool, and care, and pain I
And welcome sorrow too!
All tool is rest, all grief is gain,
With such a prize in view

Come crown and throne, come robe and palm Burst forth gladystream of peace! Come, holy city, of the Lamb! Rise, Sun of Righteousness! When shall the clouds that veil thy rays
For ever be withdrawn?
Why dost thou tarry, day of days?
When shall thy gladness dawn?

THROUGH DEATH TO LIFE.

The star is not extinguished when it sets
Upon the dull horizon, it but goes
To shine in other skies, then re-appear
In ours, as fresh as when it first arose.

The river is not lost, when, o'er the rock,

It pours its flood into the abyss below:
Its scattered force re-gathering from the shock,
It hastens onward, with yet fuller flow.

The bright sun dies not, when the shadowing orb
Of the eclipsing moon obscures its ray:
It still is shining on, and soon to us
Will burst undimmed into the joy of day.

The lily dies not, when both flower and leaf
Fade, and are strewed upon the chill sad ground:
Gone down for shelter to its mother-earth,
"Twill rise, re-bloom, and shed its fragrance round.

The dewdrop dies not, when it leaves the flower,
And passes upward on the beam of morn.

It does but hide itself in light on high,
To its loved flower at twilight to return.

The fine gold has not perished, when the flame Seizes upon it with consuming glow: In freshened splendour it comes forth anew, To sparkle on the monarch's throne or brow.

Thus nothing dies, or only dies to live:
Star, stream, sun, flower, the dew-drop, and the gold,

Each goodly thing, instinct with buoyant hope, Hastes to put on its purer finer mould.

Thus in the quiet joy of kindly trust,

We bid each parting saint a brief farewell:

Weeping, yet smiling, we commit their dust

To the safe keeping of the silent cell

Softly within that peaceful resting-place,
We lay their wearied limbs; and bid the clay
Press lightly on them, till the night be past,
And the far east give note of coming day.

The day of re-appearing ' how it speeds!

He who is true and faithful speaks the word.

Then shall we ever be with those we love,

Then shall we be for ever with the Lord

The shout is heard, the archangel's voice goes forth;
The trumpet sounds, the dead awake and sing,
The living put on glory, one glad band,
They hasten up to meet their coming King

Short death and darkness! Endless life and light!
Short dimming, endless shining in you sphere,
Where all is incorruptible and pure,
The joy without the pain, the smile without the tear.

HORA NOVISSIMA.

Fan down the ages now,

Her journey well-nigh done,

The pilgrim Church pursues her way,

In haste to reach the crown.

The story of the past

Comes up before her view,

How well it seems to suit her still.

Old, and yet ever new.

The same story still,

Of sin and weariness,

Of grace and love still flowing down

To pardon and to bless.

'Tis the old sorrow still,

The briar and the thorn;

And 'tis the same old solace yet,—

The hope of coming morn.

No wider is the gate,

No broader is the way,

No smoother is the ancient path

That leads to light and day

No lighter is the load

Beneath whose weight we cry,

No tamer grows the rebal flesh,

Nor less our enemy

No sweeter is the cup,
Nor less our lot of ill,
"Twas tribulation ages since,
"Tis tribulation still.

No greener are the rocks,

No fresher flow the rills,

No roses in the wilds appear,

No vines upon the hills.

Still dark the sky above.

And sharp the desert air,

'Tis wide, bleak desolation round,

And shadow everywhere.

Dawn lingers on you cliff,
But, oh, how slow to spring!
Morning still nestles on you wave,
Afraid to try its wing

No slacker grows the fight,
No feebler is the fee,
No less the need of armour tried,
Of shield and spear and bow

Nor less we feel the blank
Of earth's still absent King,
Whose presence is of all our bliss
The everlasting spring.

Thus onward still we press

Through evil and through good,

Through pain and poverty and want,

Through peril and through blood

Still faithful to our God,
And to our Captain true,
We follow where he leads the way,
The kingdom in our view.

THE NIGHT COMETH.

Time's sun is fast setting,

Its twilight is nigh,

Its evening is falling

In cloud o'er the sky;

Its shadows are stretching

In ominous gloom,

Its midnight approaches,

The midnight of doom.

Then haste, sinner, haste, there is mercy for thee,

And wrath is preparing,—fice, lingerer, fice!

Rides forth the fierce tempest
On the wing of the cloud,
The mean of the night-blast
Is fitful and loud,
The mountains are heaving,
The forests are bow'd,
The ocean is surging,
Earth gathers its shroud.

Then haste, sinner, haste, there is mercy for thee, And wrath is preparing,—flee, lingerer, flee!

The vision is nearing,

The Judge and the throne!

The voice of the Angel

Proclaims "It is done"

On the whirl of the tempest

Its ruler shall come,

And the blaze of his glory

Flash out from its gloom,

Then haste, sinner, haste, there is mercy for thee

And wrath is preparing,—flee, lingerer, flee!

His people shall sing,
With gladness they hall him
Redeemer and King.
The iron rod wielding
The rod of his ire,
He cometh to kindle
Earth's last fatal fire!
Then haste, sinner, haste, there is mercy for thee,
And wrath is preparing,—flee, lingerer, flee!

With clouds He is coming !

THE DAY AFTER ARMAGEDDON.

"They have blown the trumpet, but none goeth to the battle. -Ezek vn 14

"Tis the summons to battle !
But the cry is unheard,
The trumpet has spoken,
Not a warrior has stirred

It has sounded again,
Still louder and keener,
It has sounded in vain

Yet a third time, and shriller, That war-note has blown, But the answer that cometh Is the echo alone.

THE DAY AFTER ARMAGEDDON.

Tis the silence of silence!

Tower, tent, vale, and hill,
Field, forest, and highway,—
Aft are soundless and still!

No challenge is lifted,

No signal unfurl'd,

'Tis man's dark hour of terror.

The awe of the world

For the arm of Jehovah

Has been bared in its might,

And the sword of his vengeance

Has been burnished to smite.

Through the ridges of battle
His ploughshare has sped,
And the tents of the living
Are the tombs of the dead

The rude roar of millions
Is hushed in an hour;
The array of the mighty
Is crushed in its power.

"Twas man's proudest muster
Of sinew and steel
His army of armies,
Mail-clad to the heel.

No sun had e'er dawned on So fearful a day, No trumpet had marshalled So dread on array

As if earth in her frenzy,
From each region afar,
Had poured forth her nations
For the shock of that war.

In the flush of their manhood,
In the bud of their prime,
In veteran ripeness,
The men of each clime,

Came thronging and rushing,
Like rivers in flood,
Defying the terrors
And vengeance of God.

For the ruler of darkness,

The god of this world,

Had summoned his armies,

His banner unfurled.

As the storm-cloud it gathered,
As the lightning it sped,
As the mist it has vanished,
All is still as the dead.

Not a breath nor a beam ,
The the silence of silence,
The dream of a dream.

Now, chains for the spoiler!

Dark and swift be his doom!

Thou hast trodden the nations,

Thy treading is come!

Earth, cease now thy wailing,
Thy wounds bleed no more;
Lo, the curse is departing,
Thy sorrows are o'er!

Rise, daughter of Judah;
Awake now and sing;
It has come, the glad kingdom,
He has come the great King!

Thy long night is ending Of sorrow and wrong; For shame there is glory, For weeping a song.

The new morn is dawning,
Bursts forth the new sun:
The new verdure is smiling.
The new age is begun.

REST YONDER.

This is not my place of resting, Mine's a city yet to come. Onwards to it I am hasting, On to my eternal home

In it all is light and glory,
O'er it shines a nightless day;
Every trace of sin's sad story,
All the curse has pass'd away.

There the Lamb our Shepherd leads us, By the streams of life along, On the freshest pastures feeds us, Turns our sighing into song

Soon we pass this desert dreary, Soon we bid farewell to pain; Never more be sad or weary, Never, never sin again.

HOW LONG!

Do they still linger,—these slow-treading ages?

How long must we still bear their cold delay!

Streak after streak the glowing dawn presages,

And yet it breaks not,—the expected day!

Each tossing year, with prophet-lip hath spoken,
"Prepare your praises, earth awake and sing !"
And yet you dome of blue remains unbroken,
No tidings yet of the descending king!

Darkness still darkens; nearer now and nearer The lightnings gleam, the sea's scorched billows mean,

And the sero leaf of earth is growing searer; Creation droops, and heaves a bitterer groan.

O storm and earthquake, wind and warring thunder, Your hour is coming! One wild outburst more, One other day of war, and wreck, and plunder; And then your desolating reign is cler. These plains are not your battle-field for over,

That glassy deep was never made for you,

These mountains were not built for you to shiver,

These buds are not for your rude hands to strew

Flee and give back to earth its verdant gladness,

The early freshness of its unsoiled dew,

Take hence your sackeloth, with its stormy sadness.

And let these wrinkled skies their youth renew

Give back that day of days, the seventh and fairest, When, like a gem new-set, earth flung afar Her glory, of creation's gems the rarest, Sparkling in beauty to each kindred star

Come back, thou holy love, so rudely banished,
When evil came, and hate, and tear, and wrong,
Return, thou joyous light, so quickly vanished,
Revive, thou life that death hath quenched so long!

Re-fix, re-knit the chain so harshly broken,

That bound this lower orb to you bright heaven,
ang out on high the ever-golden token,

That tells of earth renewed and man forgiven.

Withdraw the veil that has for ages hidden
That upper kingdom from this nether sphere;
Renew the fellowship so long forbidden,
O God, thyself take up thy dwelling here!

A LITTLE WHILE

BEYOND the smiling and the weeping I shall be soon,

Beyond the waking and the sleeping,

Beyond the sowing and the reaping,

I shall be soon.

Love, rest, and home ! Sweet hope !

Lord, tarry not, but come.

Beyond the blooming and the fading, I shall be soon.

Beyond the shining and the shading, Beyond the hoping and the dreading,

I shall be soon.

Love, rest, and home ! Sweet hope ! Lord, tarry not, but come. Beyond the rising and the setting

I shall be seen,

Beyond the calming and the fretting,

Beyond remembering and forgetting,

1 shall be soon

Love, rest, and home

Sweet hope !

Lord, tarry not, but come

Beyond the gathering and the strowing

I shall be soon,

Beyond the ebbing and the flowing, Beyond the coming and the going,

I shall be soon.

Love, rest, and home!

Sweet hope !

Lord, tarry not, but come.

Beyond the parting and the meeting

I shall be soon

Beyond the farewell and the greeting,

Beyond this pulse's fever-beating,

I shall be soon

Love, rest, and home !

Sweet hope!

Lord, tarry not, but come.

Beyond the frost-chain and the fever
I shall be soon,
Beyond the rock-waste and the river,
Beyond the over and the never,

Love, rest, and home!
Sweet hope!
Lord, tarry not, but come.

NOT VERY FAR.

Surery, you heaven, where angels see God's face,
Is not so distant as we deem,
From this low earth? 'Tis but a little space,
The narrow crossing of a slender stream,
'Tis but a veil, which winds might blow aside:
Yes, these are all that us of earth divide,
From the bright dwelling of the glorified,
The Land of which I dream!

These peaks are nearer heaven than earth below,
These hills are higher than they seem;
'Tus not the clouds they touch, nor the soft brow
Of the o'er-bending azure as we deem.
'Tus the blue floor of heaven that they up-bear;
And like some old and wildly rugged stair,
They lift us to the land where all is fair,
The Land of which I dream!

These ocean waves, in their unmeasured sweep,
Are brighter, bluer than they seem,
True image here of the celestial deep,
Fed from the fulness of the unfailing stream,—

Heaven's glassy sea of everlasting rest,
With not a breath to stir its silent breast,
The sea that laves the land where all are blest,
The Land of which I dream!

And these keen stars, the bridal gems of Night,
Are purer, lovelier than they seem,
Filled from the inner fountain of deep light,
They pour down heaven's own beam,
Clear-speaking from their throne of glorious blue,
In accents ever ancient, ever new,
Of the glad home above, beyond our view,
The Land of which I dream!

This life of ours, these lingering years of earth,
Are briefer, swifter than they seem;
A little while, and the great second birth
Of time shall come, the prophet's ancient theme!
Then Ho, the King, the Judge at length shall come,
And for this desert, where we sadly roam,
Shall give the kingdom for our endless home,
The Land of which I dream!

THE EVERLASTING MEMORIAL

Up and away, like the dew of the morning, Searing from earth to its home in the sun,— So let me steal away, gently and lovingly, Only remembered by what I have done.

My name and my place and my tomb, all forgotten,
The brief race of time well and patiently run,
So let me pass away, peacefully, silently,
Only remembered by what I have done

Gladly away from this toil would I hasten.

Up to the crown that for me has been won;

Unthought of by man in rewards or in praises,—

Only remembered by what I have done.

Up and away, like the odours of sunset,

That sweeten the twilight as darkness comes on;
So be my life,—a thing felt but not noticed,

And I but remembered by what I have done.

- Yes, like the fragrance that wanders in freshness, When the flowers that it came from are closed up and gone,
- So would I be-to this world's weary dwellers, Only remembered by what I have done.
- Needs there the praise of the love-written record,

 The name and the epitaph graved on the stone?

 The things we have lived for,—let them be our story,

 We ourselves but remembered by what we have done.
- I need not be missed, if my life has been bearing (As its summer and autumn moved silently on)
 The bloom, and the fruit, and the seed of its season,
 I shall still be remembered by what I have done
- I need not be missed, if another succeed me,

 To reap down those fields which in spring I have sown;
- He who ploughed and who sowed is not missed by the reaper,

He is only remembered by what he has done.

Not myself, but the truth that in life I have spoken,
Not myself, but the seed that in life I have sown,
Shall pass on to ages, all about me forgotten,
Save the truth I have spoken, the things I have done

So let my living be, so be my dying;
So let my name lie, unblazoned, unknown;
Unpraised and unmissed, I shall still be remembered;
Yes,—but remembered by what I have done.

OUR ONE LIFE

ŧ

'Tis not for man to trifle! Life is brief,
And sin is here
Our age is but the falling of a leaf,
A dropping tear.

We have no time to sport away the hours, All must be earnest in a world like ours

Not many lives, but only one have we,
One, only one,
How sacred should that one life ever be,
That narrow span!
Day after day filled up with blessed toil,
Hour after hour still bringing in new spoil.

Our being is no shadow of thin air,

No vacant dream,

No fable of the things that never were,

But only seem.

'Tis full of meaning as of mystery,

Tho' strange and solemn may that meaning be.

Our sorrows are no phantom of the night, No idle tale;

No cloud that floats along a sky of light, On summer gale.

They are the true realities of earth, Friends and companions even from our birth

- O life below,—how brief, and poor, and sad !
 One heavy sigh.
- O life above,—how long, how fair, and glad; An endless joy.
- Oh, to be done with daily dying here;
- Oh, to begin the living in you sphere!
- O day of time, how dark! O sky and earth, How dull your hue,
- O day of Christ, how bright I O sky and earth, Made fair and new!

Come, better Edon, with thy fresher green;

Come, brighter Salem, gladden all the scene !

THE CONSOLATION

The storm has broken, and the heavy blast,
That stifled morn's free breath and shook its dew,
Is dying into sunshine, and the last
Cold cloud has vanished from you arch of blue.

I know it is but for a day; the war

Must soon be waged again 'twixt earth and heaven;

Another tempest will arise to mar

The tranquil beauty of the fragrant even.

And yet I joy as storm on storm awakes,

Not that I love the uproar or the gloom,
But in each tempest over earth that breaks,
I count one fewer outburst yet to come.

No groan creation heaves is breathed in vain,
Nor e'er shall be repeated; it is done.
Once heaved it never shall be heaved again;
Earth's panga and throes are lessening one by one

So falls the stroke of sorrow, and so springs
Strange joy and comfort from the very grief,
Even to the weariest sufferer, so brings
Each heavy burden still its own relief

One cross the less remains for me to bear,
Already borne is that of yesterday,
That of to-day shall no to-morrow share,
To-morrow's with itself, shall pass away.

That which is added to the troubled past
Is taken from the future, whose sad store
Grows less and less each day, till soon the last Dull wave of wee shall break upon our shore.

The storm that yesterday plough'd up the sea Is buried now beneath its level blue, One storm the tewer now remains for me, Ere sky and earth are made for over new.

. THE REAL

There are no dreams beyond the tomb;
The night of dreams is o'er,
'Tis only here they go and come,
On this dull, shadowy shore.

When we arise from off this restless couch
Of weariness and pain,
When death awakes us with his stony touch
Never to sleep again

Then shadows vanish, the invisible Rises before our view, On every side comes up the real, The certain, and the true

And when the morn of morns shall come,
The resurrection day,
Then yet more real shall all become,
And shadows pass away.

How true and great that world must be, How false, how little this! Man sees not what he seems to see, He seems not what he is

Here is the hollow and untrue;
This is the night of dreams;
Thickly o'erspread with mist and dew,
Earth is not what it seems

But morn is coming with its light,

To chase each shade and ill,

Then time vain beauty shall take flight,

Like rainbow from the hill.

And truth returneth from on high; Gone is the night of dreams, Gone is the shadow and the he, Earth shall be what it seems.

NOT HERE

Sortly the winds were fanning this fresh cheek,

When heedless boyhood loved to dream and stray;
I loved earth's skies, nor deemed then sad or bleak,

Its fields seemed still to breathe of joyous May.
I said, what better home shall this heart seek?

Here let me dwell for aye

Cold winter smote, frosts nipt, sore tempests broke,
And the dark cloud shut out the beauteous day,
The fair flower perished, and the blast's rude shock
Struck the strong pine, and swept its pride away,
My fond dream passed, I said as I awoke,
"I would not live alway."

Yet would I not turn back, nor faint, nor sigh,
Nor shun the war, nor murmur at the doom,
I see the beacon-light of yonder sky,
Beyond the earth and sea, beyond the tomb!
And then I say, "O Saviour, ever nigh, Light me through this cold gloom."

NOT NOW.

Days come and go, In joy or woe, Days go and come, In endless sum.

Only the eternal day
Shall come but never go,
Only the eternal tide
Shall never ebb but flow.
O long eternity,
My soul goes forth to thee!

Suns set and rise In these dull skies, Suns rise and set, Till men forget,

The day is at the door,
When they shall rise no more.
O everlasting Sun,
Whose race is never run,
Be thou my endless light,
Then shall I fear no night !

EARTH'S BEAUTY

Where the wave murmurs not, Where the gust eddies not, Where the stream rushes not, Where the cliff shadows not, Where the wood darkens not,

I would not be '
Bright the' the heavens were,
Rich the' the flowers there,
Sweet the' the fragrant air,
And all as Eden fair,
Yet as a dweller there,

I would not be!

O wave and breeze and rill and rock and wood,

Was it not God himself that called you good!

LIGHT'S TEACHINGS.

THE light is ever silent,

It calls up voices over sea and earth, And fills the glowing air with harmonies, The lark's gay chant, the note of forest-dove, The lamb's quick bleat, and the bee's earnest hum. The sea-bird's winged wail upon the wave. It wakes the voice of childhood, soft and clear, The city's hoisy rush, the village-stir, And the world's mighty murmur that had sunk, For a short hour to sleep upon the down That darkness spreads for wearted limbs and eyes But still it sounds not, speaks not, whispers not ! Not one faint throb of its vast pulse is heard By creature-ear. How silent is the light ! Even when of old it waken'd Memnon's lyre, It breathed no music of its own; and still, When at sweet sunrise, on its golden wings, It brings the melodies of dawn to man, It scatters them in silence o'er the earth.

The light is ever silent,

It sparkles on morn's million gems of dew,
It flings itself into the shower of noon,
It weaves its gold into the cloud of sunset,— Yet not a sound is heard, it dashes full
On you broad rock, yet not an echo answers,
It lights in myriad drops upon the flower,
Yet not a blossom stirs, it does not move
The slightest film of floating gossamer,
Which the faint touch of insect's wing would shiver.

The light is over silent,

Most silent of all heavenly silences,
Not even the darkness stiller, nor so still,
Too swift for sound or speech, it rushes on Right through the yielding skies, a massive flood
Of multitudinous beams; an endless sea,
That flows but ebbs not, breaking on the shore
Of this dark earth, with never-ceasing wave,
Yet in its swiftest flow, or fullest spring-tide,
Giving less sound than does one falling biossom,
Which the May-breeze lays lightly on the sward

Such let my life be here; Not marked by noise but by success alone;

Not known by bustle but by useful deeds,
Quiet and gentle, clear and fair as light,
Yet full of its all-penetrating power,
Its silent but resistless influence,
Making no needless sound, yet excr working,
Hour after hour, upon a needy world!

Sunshine is over calm;

There are no tempests in you sea of beams,
That bright Pacific on whose peaceful bosom
All happy things come floating down to us
Light has no hurricane, no angry blast,
No turbid torrent laying waste our plains
Morn after morn goes by, and the fresh light
Pours in upon the darkness, yet no storm
Awakes, no eddy stirs the tranquil glow,
No crested billow rises, and no foam
Drifting along, tells of some tumult past.

Sunshine is ever strong;

No blast can break or bend one single ray; In seven-fold strength it faces wave and wind; Heedless of their opposing turbulence, It passes through them in its quiet power Unruffled, and unbroken, and unbent. No might of armies, and no rage of storms, Can turn aside one subbeam from its path, Or bute its speed, or force it back again To the far fountuin-head from whence it came

Sunshine is ever pure;

No art of man can rob it of its beauty

Nor stain its unpolluted heaveninges

It is the fanest, purest thing in nature,

Fit type of that fair heaven where all is pure,

And into which no evil thing can enter,

Where darkness comes not, where no shadow falls.

Where night and so can have no dwelling-place

Sunshine is ever joyous,

Its birth-place is in you bright oil which flings. O'er cliff and vale, its wealth of rosy smiles. Each sunbeam seems the very soul of joy, No sadness soils it, scattering gladsomeness, Like a bright angel, onward still it moves. The very churchyard brightens as the ray. Alights upon its tembstones, and the tuif. Seems strangely heaving to the radiant glow, As if fore-dating the expected sunrise,.

When, at the first gleam of the Morning-Star.

The faithful grave shall render up its treasure,
And sunshine, such as earth has never known,
Shall fill these skies with mirth, and smiles, and beauty,

Erasing each sad wrinkle from their brow, Which the long curse had deeply graven there.

THE NIGHT AND THE MORNING

To dream a troubled dream, and then awaken
To the soft gladness of a summer sky
To dream ourselves alone, unloved, forsaken,
And then to wake 'mid smiles, and love, and joy

To look at evening on the storm's rude motion,
The cloudy tumult of the fretted deep,
And then at day-burst upon that same ocean,
Soothed to the stillness of its stillest sleep,—

So runs our course, so tells the church her story, So to the end shall it be ever told; Brief shame on earth, but after shame the glory, That wanes not, dims not, never waxes old

Lord Jesus, come, and end this troubled dreaming!

Dark shedows vanish, rosy twilight break!

Morn of the true and real, burst forth, calm-beaming

Day of the beautiful, arise, awake!

HOPE OF DAY.

Till the day dawn, And the Day-star arise, Father, O keep thy son, Thy feeble, faithless one ! O guide him through the waste. Till the long gloom be past It is a night of fear, .The path is rough and drear, Clouds frown, blasts rush along, The tempests gather strong, Strange perils compass me. Of flood, fire, rock, and sea; Yet I, in loneliness, Would fain still onward press O felt and known, but yet unseen, be nigh; O loved and longed for, hear each hidden sigh Leave me not, struggling thus, to sink and die

Till the day dawn, And the Day-star arise, O Saviour, let thy love, Down dropping from above,
This withered soul innew
With thy flower-freshening dew!
O never-changing Friend,
My failing steps attend,
Hold thou me up, and so
I shall pass safely through
Still keep me at thy side
Thou who for me hast died,
O light me on my way,
My joy, my strength, my stay
O clasp me closer to thy pierced side,
Thou who for me the death of deaths has died;
Let not this staggering faith be too too sorely tried

Till the day dawn,
And the Day-star arise,
Spirit of gentle love,
Thou tempest-calming dove,
Come, and within me dwell,
Come, and all gloom dispel.
Most blessed Comforter,
My weary footsteps cheer.
O light and lamp divine,

Upon my midnight shine,
Better than star or moon,
Brighter than day's bright noon,
O let thy joyous ray

Turn all my night to day
When thou art absent, even my joy is sad,
When thou art with me, even my grief is glad;
Let not thy silence now sorrow to sorrow add.

Till the day dawn,
And the Day-star arise,
Church of the living God,
Pursue thy upward road;
Look not behind nor stray
From the well-trodden way.
Be not ashamed to bear
Thy cross on earth, nor fear
Reproach and poverty,
For him who died for thee.
With girded loins press on,
Till the roward is won.
Think of thy absent Lord,
Hold fast thy plighted word.
off not thy weeds of widowhood,

Doff not thy weeds of widowhood, nor fear To let the world, thro' which thou passest, hear The widow's cry, and see the widow's faithful ter:

DAY-SPRING

The loving morn is springing
From night's unloving gloom;
And earth seems now arising
In beauty from the tomb.

See daylight far above us,

Tinging each cloudy wreath,

Ere it showers itself in splendour

Upon the plain beneath

'Tis sparkling on the mountain peak,
'Tis hurrying down the vale,
'Tis bursting thro' the forest-boughs,
'Tis freshening in the gale.

'Tis mingling with the river's smile,
'Tis glistening in the dew,
'Tis flinging far its silver net,
O'er ocean's braided blue.

"Tis blushing o'er the meadow's gold,
"Tis alighting on the flower,
Unfolding every gentle bud
To the gladness of the hour.

Tis gilding the old rum's moss,
"Tis gleaming from the spire,
And thro' the crumbling window-shafts
It shoots its living fire

The quivering in the village-smoke,
That curls the low roof o'er,
It beats against the castle gate,
And at the cottage door

O'er the church-yard it is resting On stone, and grass, and mould, Giving voice to each grey tombstone As to Memnon's harp of old

O the gay burst of beauty
That is flushing over earth,
And calling forth its millions
To holy morning mirth!

A ...

Yet look we for a sunrise

More beautiful than this,

And watch we for a dawning

Of purer light and bliss

When a far fairer morning
O'er greener hills shall rise,
And a far fresher sunlight
Look down from bluer skies.

Is not creation weary?

Has sin not reigned too long?

Hear, Lord, thy Church's pleading,

Come, end her day of wrong!

DUST TO DUST.

Dust receive thy kindred!

Earth take now thine own!

To thee this trust is rendered;

In thee this seed is sown

Guard the precious treasure, Ever-faithful tomb! Keep it all unrifled, Till the Master come.

Time's tide of change and uproar Breaks above thy head, Feet of restless millions O'er thy chambers tread

Earthquakes, whirlwinds, tempests,
Tear the quivering ground.
Voices, trumpets, thunders
Fill the air around.

Roar of raging battle,
Shout, and shrick, and wail,
Startle even the bravest,
Turn the fresh check pale

Torrent rolled on torrent,
Bursts o'er bank and bar,
Sweeping down our valleys
Swells the rising war.

Billow meeting billow,

Beats the shattered strand,
Rousing ocean-echoes,

Shaking sea and land.

But these sounds of terror
Pierce not this low tomb,
Nor break the happy slumbers
Of this quiet home.

Couch of the tranquil slumber
For the weary brow;
Rest of the faint and toiling,
Take this loved one now.

Turf of the shaded churchyard,
Warder of the clay,
Watch the toil-worn sleeper,
Till the awaking day

Watch the well-loved sleeper, Guard that placed form, Fold around it gently, Shield it from alarm.

Clasp it kindly, fondly,
To cherish not destroy;
Clasp it as the mother
Chasps her nestling joy.

Guard the precious treasure.

Ever faithful tomb;

Keep it all unrifled

Till the Master come.

ARISE AND DEPART

BRETHELY, ause,

Let us go hence !

Defiled, polluted thus,
This is no home for us,
Till earth is purified.
We may not here abide
We were not born for earth;
The city of our birth,
The better paradise,
Is far above these skies
Upward then let us sour,
Cleaving to dust no more!

Brethren, arise,

Let us go hence !

Death and the grave are here, The sick-bed and the bier. The children of the tomb May love this kindred gloom; But we the deathless band, Must seek the deathless land. The mortal here may rove, The immortal dwell above. Here we can only die,

Brethren, arise,

Let us go hence!

The ever-falling tear,
The ever-swelling sigh,
The sorrow ever nigh,
The sin still flowing on,
Creations ceaseless groan,
The tumult near and far,
The universal war,
The sounds that never cease
These are our weariness!

Brethren, arise,

Let us go hence!

This is not our abode;

Too far, too far from God!

The angels dwell not here;
There falls not on the ear
The everlasting song,
From the celestial throng
'Tis discord here alone,
Earth's molody is gone,
Her harp lies broken now,
Her praise has ceased to flow!

Brethren, arise,

Let us go hence!

The New Jerusalem,

Like a resplendent gem,

Sends down its heavenly light.

Attracting our dull sight

I see the bright ones wait

At each fair pearly gate;

I hear their voices call,

I see the jasper wall,

The clear translucent gold,

The glory all untold!

Brethren, arise.

Let us go hence !

What are earth's joys and gems
What are its diadems?
Our crowns are waiting us
Within our Father's house.
Our friends above the skee!
Are bidding us arise,
Our Loid, he calls away
To scenes of sweeter day
Than this sad earth can know
Let us arise and go!

THE KINGDOM

PEACE! Earth's last battle has been won;
Its days of conflict now are o'er,
The Prince of peace ascends the throne,
And war has ceased from shore to shore

Rest! the world's day of toil is past,
Each storm is hushed above, below,
Creation's joy has come at last,
After six thousand years of woe

Messiah reigns! earth's king has come!
Its diadems are on his brow,
Its rebel kingdoms have become
His everlasting kingdom now.

This earth again is Paradisc,
The desert blossoms as the rose,
Clothed in its robes of bridal bliss,
Creation has forgot its woes.

O, long-expected, absent long,
Star of creation's troubled gloom!

Let heaven and carth break forth in song,
Messiah! Saviour! art thou come?

For thou hast bought us with thy blood,
And thou wast slain to set us free,
Thou mad'st us kings and priests to God,
And we shall reign on earth with thee!

NEW,LY FALLEN ASLEEP.

Past all pain for ever,

Done with sickness now,

Let me close thine eyes, mother,

Let me smooth thy brow.

Rest and health and gladness;

These thy portion now,

Let me press thy hand, mother,

Let me kiss thy brow

Eyes that shall never weep:

Life's tears all shed,

Its farewells said,—

These shall be thine!

All well with thee,

O, would that they were mine!

.A brow without a shade;

Each wrinkle smoothed,

Each throbbing soothed,

That shall be thine !

All we'll with thee,

O, would that it were mine!

A tongue that stammers now
In tuneful praise,
Through endless days,
That shall be thine!
All well with thee,
O, would that it were mine!

A voice that trembles not;
All quivering past,
Death's sigh the last.
That shall be thine!
All well with thee
O, would that it were mine!

Limbs that shall never tire,

Nor ask to rest,

In service blest,

These shall be thine!

All well with thee,

O, would that they were mine!

A frame that cannot ache,

Earth's labours done,

Life's battle won,

That shall be thine!

All well with thee;

O, would that it were mine!

A heart that flutters not,

No timid throb,

No quick-breathed sob,

That shall be thine!

All well with thee;

O, would that it were mine!

A will that swerveth not,
At frown or smile,
At threat or wile;
That shall be thine!
All well with thee,
O, would that it were mine!

A soul still upward bent, On higher flight, With wing of light; That shall be there!
All well with thee,
O, would that it were mine!

Hours without fret or care,'
The race well run,
The prize well won,
These shall be thine!
All well with thee,
O, would that they were mine!

Days without toil or giret,

Time's burdens borne,

With strength well-worn,

These shall be thine!

All well with thee,

O, would that they were mine!

Rest without broken dreams,
Or wakeful fears,
Or hidden tears,
That shall be thing!
All well with thee,
O, would that it were mine!

Life that shall fear no death;
God's life above,
Of light and love,
That shall be thing!
All well with thee,
O, would that it were mine!

Morn that shall light the tomb,
And call from dust
The slumbering just,
That shall be thine!
All well with thee,
O, would that it were mine!

THE FLESH RESTING IN HOPE

"The grave is mine house I have made my bed in the darkness... the clods of the valley shall be sweet unto him"— Job xvii 13, xxi 33

Lie down, frail body, here,
Earth has no fairer bed,
No gentler pillow to afford,
Come, rest thy home-sick head

Lie down, "vile body,"* here,
This mould is smoothly strown,
No couch of flowers more softly spread;
Come, make this grave thine own.

Lie down with all thy aches,
There is no aching here;
How soon shall all thy life-long ills
For ever disappear.

[•] Phil. 111 21

Thro' these well-guarded gates

No fee can entrance gain,

No sickness wastes, nor once intrudes

The memory of pain

The tossings of the night,
The frettings of the day,
All end, and, like a cloud of dawn,
Melt from thy skies away

Foot-sore and worn thou art,
Breathless with toil and fight,
How welcome now the long-sought sleep
Of this all-tranquil night

Brief night and quiet couch
In some star-lighted room,
Watched but by one beloved eye,
Whose light dispels all gloom,— .

A sky without a cloud,

A sea without a wave,—

These are but shadows of thy re t
In this thy peaceful grave.

Rest for the toiling hand,
Rest for the thought-worn brow,
Rest for the weary way-sore feet,
Rest from all labour now

Rest for the fevered brain,
Rest for the throbbing eye,
Thro' these parched lips of thine no more,
Shall pass the mean or sigh.

Soon shall the trump of God Give out the welcome sound, That shakes thy silent chamber-walls And breaks the turf-sealed ground

Ye dwellers in the dust,

Awake, come forth, and sing,

Sharp has your frost of winter been.

But bright shall be your spring.

'Twas sown in weakness here,
'Twill then be raised in power.
That which was sown an earthly seed,
Shall rise a heavenly flower.

REST

Nor long, not long! The spirit-wasting fever
Of this strange life shall quit each throbbing vein;
And this wild pulse flow placedly for ever,
And endless peace relieve the burning brain.

Earth's joys are but a dream, its destiny
Is but decay and death Its fairest form
Sunshine and shadow mixed. Its brightest day
A rainbow braided on the wreaths of storm

Yet there is blessedness that changeth not,
A rest with God, a life that cannot die:
A better portion, and a brighter lot,
A home with Christ, a heritage on high.

Hope for the hopeless, for the weary rest,

More gentle than the still repose of even !

Joy for the joyless, bliss for the unblest,

Homes for the desolate in yonder heaven!

108 REST

The tempest makes returning calm more dear,

The darkest midnight makes the brightest star,

Even so to us when all is ended here,

Shall be the past, remembered from afar

Then welcome change and death i Since these alone Can break life's fetters, and dissolve its spell, Welcome all present change, which speeds us on So swift to that which is unchangeable.

A PILGRIM'S SONG

A few more years shall roll,
A few more seasons come.

And we shall be with those that rest,
Asleep within the temb

Then, O my Lord, prepare
My soul for that great day,
O wash me in thy precious blood,
And take my sins away.

A few more suns shall set
O'er these dark hills of time,
And we shall be where suns are not,
A far serener clime
Then, O my Lord, prepare
My soul for that blest day,
O wash me in thy precious blood,
And take my sins away.

A few more storms shall beat
On this wild rocky shore,
And we shall be where tempests cease,
And surges swell no more.
Then, O my Lord, prepare
My soul for that calm day,
O wash me in thy precious blood,
And take my sins away

A few more struggles here,
A few more partings o'er,
A few more toils, a few more tears,
And we shall weep no more
Then, O my Lord, prepare
My soul for that blest day,
O wash me in thy precious blood,
And take my sins away.

A few more Sabbaths here
Shall cheer us on our way,
And we shall reach the endless rest,
The eternal Sabbath-day.*

* The old Latin hymn expresses this well —

"life nec sabbato
Succedit sabbatum,
Perpes Initia
Sabbatizantium."

Then, O my Lord, prepare
My soul for that sweet day,
O wash me in thy precious blood,
And take my sins away.

This but a little while
And He shall come again,
Who died that we might live, who lives
That we with Him may reign
Then, O my Lord, prepare
My soul for that glad day,
O wash me in thy precious blood,
And take my sins away

QUIS SEPARABIT

This thus they press the hand and part,
Thus have they but farewell again.
Yet stril they commune, heart with heart.
Linked by a never-broken chain

Still one in life and one in death,

One in their hope of not above,

One in their joy, their trust, their faith,

One in each other's faithful love.

Yot must they part, and parting, weep,
What else has earth for them in store?
These farewell pange, how sharp and deep,
These farewell words, how sad and sore!

Yet shall they meet again in peace,
To sing the song of festal joy,
Where none shall bid their gladness cease,
And none their fellowship destroy.

Where none shall becken them away,

Nor bid their festival be done,*

Their meeting-time the eternal day,

Their meeting-place the eternal throne.

There, hand in hand, firm linked at last,
And, heart to heart, enfolded all,
They'll smile upon the troubled past,
And wonder why they wept at all.

Then let them press the band and part,
The dearly loved, the fondly loving,
Still, still in spirit and in heart,
The undivided, unremoving

FAR BETTER.

O sawe at home, where the dark tempter roams not,
How I have envied thy far happier lot!
Already resting where the evil comes not,
The tear, the toil, the wee, the sin forget

O safe in port, where the rough billow breaks not, Where the wild sea-moan saddens thee no more, Where the remorseless stroke of tempest shakes not When, when shall I too gain that tranquil shore

O bright, amid the brightness all eternal,
When shall I breathe with thee the purer air,
Air of a land whose clime is ever vernal,
A land without a serpent or a snare

Away, above these scenes of guilt and folly, Beyond this desert's heat and dreariness, Safe in the city of the ever-holy, Let me make haste to join thy earlier bliss. Another battle fought, and oh, not lost,—
'Tells of the ending of this fight and thrall,
Another ridge of time's lone moorland cross'd,
Gives nearer prospect of the jasper wall

Just gone within the veil, where I shall follow,
Not far before me, hardly out of sight,—
I down beneath thee in this cloudy hollow,
And thou above me on you sunny height

Gone to begin a new and happier story,

Thy bitterer tale of earth new told and done,

These outer shadows for that inner glory

Exchanged for ever—O thrice blessed one!

freed from fetters of this lonesome prison,
 llow I shall greet thee in that day of days,
 When he who died, yea rather who is risen,
 Shall these frail frames from dust and darkness raise.

WANDERING DOWN

I am wandering down life's shady path, Slowly, slowly, wandering down,

I am wandering down life's rugged path, Slowly, slowly, wandering down

Morn, with its store of buds and dew,
Lies far behind me now,
Morn, with its wealth of song and light,
Lies far behind me now.

'Tis the mellow flush of sunset now,
"Tis the shadow and the cloud,
'Tis the dimness of the dying eve,
'Tis the shadow and the cloud.

Tis the dreamy haze of twilight now,
"Tis the hour of silent trust;
"Tis the solemn hue of fading skies,
"Tis the time of tranquil trust.

The pleasant heights of breezy life,
The pleasant hoights are past,
The sunny slopes of buoyant life,
The sunny slopes are past.

I shall rest in you low valley soon,

There to sleep my toil away,

I shall rest in you sweet valley soon,

There to sleep my tears away

One little hour will soothe away
Time's months of care and pain;
One quiet hour will dream away
Time's years of care and pain

Laid side by side with those I love, How calm that rest shall be ! Laid side by side with those I love, How soft that sleep shall be !

I shall rise and put on glory

When the great morn shall dawn;
I shall rise and put on beauty

When the glad morn shall dawn.

I shall mount to you fair city,
The dwelling of the blest,
I shall enter you bright city,
The palace of the blest

I shall meet the many parted ones,
In that one home of joy,
Lost love for ever found again,
In that dear home of joy

We have shared our earthly sorrows,

Each with the other here,

We shall share our beavenly gladness

Each with the other there

We have mingled tears together,
We shall mingle smiles and song,
We have mingled sighs together,
We shall mingle smiles and song.

THE ROD.

I weer, but do not yield,
I mourn, yet still rebel:
My inmost soul seems steel'd,
Cold and immoveable.

The wound is sharp and deep;
My spirit bleeds within;
And yet I he asleep,
And still I sin, I sin.

My bruised soul complains
Of stripes without, within;
I feel these piercing pains,
Yet still I sin, I sin.

O'er me the low cloud hung
Its weight of shade and fear;
Unmoved I pass'd along,
And still my sin is here.

You massive mountain-peak
The lightning rends at will;
The rock can melt or break;
I am unbroken still.

My sky was once noon-bright,
My day was calm the while,
I loved the pleasant light,
The sunshine's happy smile.

I said, My God, oh, sure, This love will kindle mine; Let but this calm endure, Then all my heart is thine.

Alas, I knew it not !—
The summer flung its gold
Of sunshine o'er my lot,
And yet my heart was cold.

Trust me with prosperous days, I said, O spare the rod; Thee and thy love I'll praise, My gracious, patient God.

Must I be smitten Lord?

Are gentler measures vain?

Must I be smitten, Lord?

Can nothing save but pain?

Thou trustedst me a while;
Alas! I was deceived;
I revell'd in the smile,
Yet to the dust I cleaved.

Then the fierce tempest broke,
I knew from whom it came,
I read in that sharp stroke
A father's hand and name.

And yet I did Thee wrong,

Dark thoughts of Thee came in;

A froward, selfish throng,

And I allow'd the sin!

I did Thee wrong, my God,
I wronged thy truth and love,
I fretted at the rod,
Against thy power I strove.

I said, My God, at length,
This stony heart remove,
Deny all other strength,
But give me strength to love.

Come nearer, nearer still,

Let not thy light depart,

Bend, break this stubborn will,

Dissolve this iron heart

Less wayward let me be,

More pliable and mild,

In glad simplicity

More like a trustful child.

Less, less of self each day,
And more, my God, of thee;
O keep me in the way,
However rough it be.

Less of the flesh each day,
Less of the world and su;
More of thy Son, I pray,
More of Thyself within.

123

Riper and riper now,

Each hour let me become,

Less fit for scenes below,

More fit for such a home

More moulded to Thy will,
Lord, let Thy servant be,
Higher and higher still,
Liker and liker thee

Leave nought that is unmeet;
Of all that is mine own
Strip me, and so complete
My training for the throne.

STRENGTH BY THE WAY.

Jesus, while this rough desert-soil

I tread, be Thou my guide and stay.

Nerve me for conflict and for toil,

Uphold me on my stranger-way

Jesus, in heaviness and fear,
'Mid cloud, and shade, and gloom I stray,
For earth's last night is drawing near,
O cheer me on my stranger-way

Jesus, in solitude and grief,

When sun and stars withhold their ray,

Make haste, make haste to my relief,

O light me on my stranger-way.

Jesus, in weakness of this flesh,
When Satan grasps me for his prey;
O give me victory afresh,
And speed me on my stranger-way.

Jesus, my righteousness and strength,
My more than life, my more than day;
Bring, bring deliverance at length,
O come and end my stranger way.

THE STRANGER SEA-BIRD

FAR from his breezy home of cliff and billow,
You sea-bird folds his wing,
Upon the tremulous bough of this stream-shading willow
He stays his wandering.

- Fanned by fresh leaves, and soothed by blossoms closing, His lullaby the stream,
- A stranger, in bewildered loneliness reposing, He dreams his ocean dream.—
- His dream of ocean-haunts, and ocean-brightness, The rock, the wave, the foam,
- The blue above, beneath, the sea-cloud's trail of whiteness,

His unforgotten home

And he would fly, but cannot, for the shadows Of night have barred his way,

How could he search a path across these woods and meadows

To his far sea-home's spray?

- Dark miles of thicket, swamp, and moorland dreary Forbid his hopeless flight,
- With plumage soiled, eye dim, heart faint, and wing all weary,

He waits for sun and light.

And I, in this far land, a timid stranger, Resting by Time's lone stream,

Lie dreaming, hour by hour, beset with night and danger,

The Church's Patmos-dream --

- The dream of home possessed, and all home s gladness Beyond these unknown hills,
- Of solace after earth's sore days of stranger-sadness, Beside the eternal rills
- Lafe's exile past, all told its broken story, Night, death, and evil gone;
- I'his more than Egypt-shame exchanged for Canaanglory,

And the bright city won !

- Come then, O Christ I earth's Monarch and Redeemer, Thy glorious Eden bring,
- Where I, even I, at last, no more a trembling dreamer, Shall fold my heavy wing.

HOPE DEFERRED.

How oft the morn has cheated us, As with unsleeping eye, We lay upon our silent couch, and watched the changing sky

How often, as the heavy hours
Stole by with soundless haste,
We've said, Ah now the dawn begins,
The weary night is past

Hours went and came, but yet no strenk
On eastern cloud or hill,
We looked in vain, no sign appeared,
'Twas night and silence still.

Twas but the starlight not the sun,
The moonlight not the day,
We thought it was the dawn, but now,
That dawn seems far away

The thus, beguiled with fond desire,
And sick with hope deferred,
The watching Church, with eager eur,
The well-known ery has heard,

"He whom you look for is at hand,
Both hope and fear are done!"
No, 'tis not yet,—and still she waits
The still unisen sun

Age after age, in love and furth,
She has with longing eye
Been watching every streak of dawn
In you perplexing sky

And shall she now give up her trust,
And turn her eye away,
As if there were no sun for her
No hope of light and day?

She will not, for she knows how sure
The promise of her Lord,
She will not, for she knows how true
Is the unchanging word.

The morn shall come, may He himself, Brighter than morn's best ray, Shall come to bid the night depart, And bring at last the day

Then shall the weary night-watch cease,
When, counting each lone hour,
She marked the shadows fitting by
The lattice of her tower

Twas not in vain she kept the watch When all around her slept, Twas not in vain she waited thus, And loved, and longed, and wept

It dawns at last, the long-loved morn:
It comes, the meeting-day,
And in its joys shall be forgot
The sorrows of delay.

THE BLANK

One flower may fill another's place,
With breath as sweet, with bues as glowing;
One ripple in you ocean-space
Be lost amid another's flowing

One star in you bright azure dome
May vanish from its sparkling cluster,
Unmissed, unmourned, and in its room
Some rival orb eclipse its lustre

But who shall fill a brother's room?

Or who shall soothe the bosom's grieving?

Who heal the heart, around his tomb

Too faithfully, too fondly cleaving?

Can I supply youth's memories?

Or speak the words in childhood spoken?

Can I re-knit the severed ties,

Replace, retune the chord once broken?

It is not here, it is not now,

That hearts are knit no more to sever;

Grief's wrinkles rased from check and brow,

And life's long blanks filled up for ever.

THE LITTLE FLOCK

A LITTIE flock ' So calls He thee,
Who bought thee with his blood,
A little flock,—disowned of men,
But owned and loved of God

A little flock! So calls He thee, Church of the first-born, hear! Be not ashamed to own the name; It is no name of fear.

A little flock! Yes, even so;
A handful among men,
Such is the purpose of thy God,
So willeth He, Amen!

Not many rich or noble called,

Not many great or wise;

They whom God makes his kings and priests,

Are poor in human eyes.

Church of the everlasting God,
The Father's gracious choice,
Amid the voices of this earth
How feeble is thy voice!

Thy words amid the words of earth How noiseless and how low! Amid the hurrying crowds of time, Thy steps how calm and slow!

But 'mid the wrinkled brows of earth,
Thy brow how free from care,
'Mid the flushed cheeks of riot here,
Thy cheek how pale and fair!

Amid the restless eyes of earth, How stedfast is thine eye, Fixed on the silent leveliness, Of the far eastern sky

A little flock! 'Tis well, 'tis well, Such be her lot and name; Thro' ages past it has been so,
And now 'tis still the same.

But the chief Shepherd comes at length,
Her feeble days are o'er,
No more a handful in the earth,
A'hitle flock no more

No more a hly among thorns,
Weary, and faint, and few,
But countless as the stars of heaven,
Or as the early dew

Then entering the eternal halls, In robes of victory, That mighty multitude shall keep The joyous jubilee

Unfading palms they bear aloft,
Unfaltering songs they sing,
Unending festival they keep,
In presence of the King*

THE SLEEP OF THE BELOVED

"So he giveth his beloved sleep "-PSALM CXXVII 2.

Sundight has vanished, and the weary earth Lies resting from a long day's toil and pain, And, looking for a new dawn's early birth, Seeks strength in slumber for its toil again.

We too would rest, but ere we close the eye
Upon the consciousness of waking thought,
Would calmly turn it to you star-bright sky,
And lift the soul to Him who slumbers not.

Above us is thy hand, with tender care,
Distilling over us the dew of sleep:

Darkness seems loaded with oblivious air,
In deep forgetfulness each sense to steep.

Thou hast provided midnight's hour of peace,
Thou stretchest over us the wing of rest;
With more than all a parent's tenderness,
Foldest us sleeping to thy gentle breast.

Grief flies away; care quits our easy couch,
Till, wakened by thy hand, when breaks the day,
Like the lone prophet by the angel's touch,
We rise to tread again our pilgrim-way

God of our life! God of each day and night!

Oh, keep us still till life's short race is run!

Until there dawns the long, long day of light,

That knows no night, yet needs no star not sun.

THE NAME OF NAMES.

FATHER, thy Son hath died

The sinner's death of woe,
Stooping in love from heaven to earth,
Our curse to undergo,
Our curse to undergo,
Upon the hateful tree
Give glory to thy Son, O Lord,
Put honour on that name of names
By blessing me!

The sinner's doom of shame,

Bearing his cross without the gate

He met the law's full claim,

He met the law's full claim,

Sin's righteous penalty.

Give glory to thy Son, O Lord,

Put honour on that name of names

By pardoning me!

Father, thy Son hath poured

His life-blood on this earth,
To cleanse away our guilt and stains,
To give us second birth,
To give us second birth,
From sin to set us free
Give glory to thy Son, O Lord,
Put honour on that name of names
By cleansing me !

Father, thy Son hath men,
O'ercoming hell's dark powers;
His surety-death was all for us,
His surety-life is ours;
His surety-life is ours,
Ours, ours eternally
Give glory to thy Son, O Lord,
Put honour on that name of names
By quickening me!

Father, thy Son to thee
Is now gone up on high,
Enthroned in heaven at thy right hand,
He reigns eternally;

If reigns eternally,
In might and majesty.
Give glory to thy Son, O Lord,
Put honour on that name of names
By raising me †

Father, thy Son on earth

No one to own him found,

He passed among the sons of men
Rejected and disowned,

Rejected and disowned,

That we received might be 1

Give glory to thy Son, O Lord,

Put honour on that name of names
By owning me !

Father, thy Son is king,
Heaven's crown and earth's is his,
For us, for us, he bought the crown,
For us he earned the bliss,
For us he carned the bliss.
Amen, so let it be!
Give glory to thy Son, O Lord,
Put honour on that name of names
By crowning me!

MINE AND THINE

"Didicisti quod mbil tui bom processorat, ot gratia Dei conversus es ad Doum "- AUGUSTINE.

All that I was,—my sin, my guilt,
My death was all my own,
All that I am, I owe to thee,
My gracious God alone

The evil of my former state

Was mine and only mine,

The good in which I now rejoice

Is thine and only thine.

The darkness of my former state,
The bondage all was mine;
The light of life in which I walk,
The liberty is thine.

Thy grace first made me feel my sin.

It taught me to believe,

Then, in believing peace I found,

And now I live, I live.

All that I am, even here on earth,
All that I hope to be
When Jesus comes and glory dawns,
I owe it, Lord, to thee.

ABIDE IN HIM

"Tocum volo vulnerari
To libentor amploxari
In cruce desidero "—Old Hims.

Cano to the Crucified!

His death is life to thee,—
Life for elemity

His pains thy pardon seal,

His stripes thy bruises heal,

His cross proclaims thy peace,

Bids every sorrow cease

His blood is all to thee,

It purges thee from sin,

It sets thy spirit free,

It keeps thy conscience clean.

Cling to the Crucified!

Cling to the Crucified!

His is a heart of love,

Full as the hearts above;

Its depths of sympathy
Are all awake for thre,
His countenance is light,
Even in the darkest night
That love shall never change,
That light shall ne'er grow dim;
Charge thou thy faithless heart,
To find its all in him

THE BELOVED SON

"This is my beloved Son in whom I am well pleased " - WATT 17

Ir is the Father's voice that cries Mul the deep silence of the skies, "This, this is my beloved Son, In Him I joy, in Him alone"

In Him my equal see revealed, In Him all righteousness fulfilled, In Him, the Lamb, the victim see, Bound, bleeding, dying on the tree.

And can you fail to love again?
Far fairer he than sous of mon!
His very name is fragrance poured,
Immanuel, Jesus, Saviour, Lord!

He died, and in his dying, proved How much, how faithfully he loved: At my right hand, his glories shine, Is my beloved, sinner, thine? O full of glory, full of grace,
Redeemer of a runed race,
Beloved of the Father, come,
Make in these sinful hearts a home!

Beloved of the Father, thou,
To whom the saints and angels bow,
Immanuel, Jesus, Saviour, come,
Make in these sinful hearts thy home !

THE SINBEARER.

"He was wounded for our transgressions, He was bruised for our inequation"—ISA $\lim \delta$.

Thy works, not mine, O Christ,
Speak gladness to this heart;
They tell me all is done;
They bid my fear depart.
To whom, save thee,
Who can alone
For sin atone,

Thy pains, not mine, O Christ,
Upon the shameful tree,
Have paid the law's full price,
And purchased peace for me.
To whom, save thee, &c.

Lord, shall I fice!

Thy tears, not mine, O Christ,

Have wept my guilt away,

And turned this night of mine

Into a blessed day

To whom, save thee, &c.

Thy bonds, not mine, O Christ,
Unbind me of my chain,
And break my prison-doors,
Ne'er to be barred again
To whom, save thee, &c.

Thy wounds, not mine, O Christ,
Can heal my bruised soul,
Thy stripes, not mine, contain
The balm that makes me whole
To whom, save thee, &c.

Thy blood, not mine, O Christ,
Thy blood so freely spilt,
Can blanch my blackest stains
And purge away my guilt
To whom, save thee, &c.

Thy cross, not mine, O Christ,

Has borne the awful load

Of sins that none in heaven

Or earth could hear, but God.

To whom, save thee, &c.

Thy death, not mine, O Christ,

Has paid the ransom due,

Ten thousand deaths like mine,

Would have been all too few.

To whom, save thee, &c.

Thy righteousness, O Christ,
Alone can cover me,
No righteousness avails,
Save that which is of thee
To whom, save thee, &c

Thy righteousness alone
Can clothe and beautify,
I wrap it round my soul,
In this I'll live and dic
To whom, save thee, &c

THE SUBSTITUTE

' Jesu, plene caritate,

Laxont mea crimina,
Latus tuum lanceatum,
Caput spinis colon ituui,
Hae sint medicanina "—Olo Hyav.

I LAY my sins on Jesus,
The spotless Lamb of God,
He bears them all and frees us
From the accursed load
I bring my guilt to Jesus,
To wash my crimson stains,
White in his blood most precious,
Till not a spot remains

I lay my wants on Jesus,
All fulness dwells in Him:
He heals all my diseases,
He doth my soul redeem.

I lay my griefs on Jesus,

My burdens and my cares,

He from them all releases,

He all my sorrows shares.

I rest my soul on Jesus,
This weary soul of mine,
His right hand me embraces,
I on his breast recline
I love the name of Jesus,
Immanuel, Christ, the Lord,
Like fragrance on the breezes.
His name abroad is poured

I long to be like Jesus,
Meek, loving, lowly, mild
I long to be like Jesus,
The Father's holy child
I long to be with Jesus
Amid the heavenly throng,
To sing with saints his praises,
To learn the angel's song.

LOST BUT FOUND

- "Arte mira, miro consilio,
 Quercus ovom suam summus opilio,
 Ut nos revocaret ab exilio "—OLD HYMN
- I was a wand'ring sheep,
 I did not love the fold,
- I did not love my Shepherd's voice, I would not be controlled
- I was a wayward child,
 I did not love my home.
- I did not love my father's voice, I loved afar to roam

The Shopherd sought his sheep,
The Father sought his child,
They followed me o'er vale and hill,
O'er deserts waste and wild.

They found me nigh to death, Famished, and faint, and lone;

They bound me with the bands of love;
They saved the wandering one!

They raised my drooping head
They gently closed my bleeding wounds,
My fainting soul they fed
They washed my filth away,
They made me clean and fair,
They brought me to my home in peace,
The long-sought wanderer!

Jesus my Shepherd 18,

"Twas He that loved my soul,
"Twas He that washed me in his blood,
"Twas He that made me whole
"Twas He that sought the lost,
That found the wandering sheep,
"Twas He that brought me to the fold,
"Tis He that still doth keep

I was a wandering sheep,
I would not be controlled.
But now I love my Shepherd's voice,
I love, I love the fold!
I was a wayward child,
I once preferred to roam,
But now I love my Father's voice,
I love, I love his home.

THE WORD MADE FLESH.

"Yo know the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ, that though he was rich yet for your sakes he became poor, that ye through he poverty might be rich "—2 Cor vin 9

The Son of God in mighty love, Came down to Bethlehem for me, Forsook his throne of light above, An infant upon earth to be.

In love, the Father's sinless child Sojourned at Nazareth for me, With sinners dwelt the undefiled, The Holy One in Galilce.

Jesus, whom angel-hosts adore,
Became a man of griefs for me,
In love, though rich, becoming poor,
That I through him enriched might be.

Though Lord of all, above, below,
He went to Olivet for me,
There drank my cup of wrath and wee,
When bleeding in Gethsemane

The ever*blessed Son of God
Went up to Calvary for me,
There paid my debt, there bere my load,
In his own body on the tree

Jesus, whose dwelling is the skies,

Went down into the grave for me,

There overcame my enemies,

There won the glorious victory

In love the whole dark path he trod,To consecrate a way for me,Each bitter footstep marked with blood,From Bethlehem to Calvary

'Tis finished all, the veil is rent,
The welcome sure, the access free,
Now then we leave our banishment,
O Father, to return to thee!

THE DARKNESS AND THE LIGHT

'Ye were sometimes darkness, but now are yo hight in the ford '
---Erit v 8

"LET there be light," Johovah said,
The beam awoke, the light obey'd,
Bursting on chaos dark and wild,
Till the glad earth and ocean smiled

Formless, and void, and dark as night, My heart remained, till heavenly light. Obedient to the word divine, On my dark soul began to shine.

Light broke upon my rayless tomb, The day-star rose upon my gloom, And with its gentle new-born ray Brighten'd my darkness into day. Glory to Thee, by all be given,—
Of light the light, in earth and heaven;
Of joys the joy, of suns the sun,
Jesus the Father's chosen One.

THE VOICE FROM GALILEE

"Of his fulnoss have all we received, and grace for grace"
JOHN 1 16

I means the voice of Jesus say,
Come unto me and rest,
Lay down, thou weary one, lay down
Thy head upon my breast.
I came to Jesus as I was,
Weary, and worn, and sad,
I found in Him a resting-place,
And he has made me glad

I heard the voice of Jesus say,

Behold, I freely give

The living water,—thirsty one,

Stoop down, and drink, and live.

I came to Jesus and I drank

Of that life-giving stream,

My thirst was quench'd, my soul revived,

And now I live in Him

I heard the voice of Jesus say,
I am this dark world's light,
Look unto me, thy morn shall rise,
'And all thy day be bright.
I look'd to Jesus, and I found
In film, my Star, my Sun,
And in that light of life I'll walk,
Till travelling days are done.

A BETHLEHEM HYMN

"Mundum implens, in priesopio juceus -Augustine.

He has come! the Christ of God, Left for us his glad abode, Stooping from his throne of bliss, To this darksome wilderness.

He has come! the Prince of Peace, Come to bid our sorrows cease, Come to scatter with his light, All the shadows of our night.

He the Mighty King has come!

Making this poor earth his home;

Come to bear our sin's sad load;

Son of David, Son of God.

He has come, whose name of grace Speaks deliverance to our race; Left for us his glad abode, Son of Mary, Son of God!

Unto us a child is born!

Ne'er has earth beheld a morn

Among all the morns of time,

Half so glorious in its prime

Unto us a Son is given!

He has come from God's own heaven;

Bringing with him from above,

Holy peace and holy love.

THIS DO IN REMEMBRANCE OF ME

Here, O my Lord, I see thee face to face,

Here would I touch and handle things unseen,

Here grasp with firmer hand the eternal grace,

And all my weariness upon Thee lean.

Here would I feed upon the bread of God,

Here drink with Thee the royal wine of heaven,

Here would I lay aside each earthly load,

Here taste afresh the calm of sin forgiven

This is the hour of banquet and of song,

This is the heavenly table spread for me,

Here let me feast, and, feasting, still prolong

The brief bright hour of fellowship with Thee

Too soon we rise, the symbols disappear,

The feast, tho' not the love, is passed and gone,

The bread and wine remove, but Thou art here,

Nearer than ever, still my Shield and Sun.

I have no help but thine, nor do I need
Another arm save thine to lean upon,
It is enough, my Lord, enough, indeed,
My strength is in thy might, thy might alone

I have no wisdom, save in Him who is

My wisdom and my teacher, both in one,

No wisdom can I lack while Thou art wise,

No teaching do I crave, save thine alone

Mine is the sin, but thine the righteousness,

Mine is the guilt, but thine the cleaning blood,

Here is my robe, my refuge, and my peace;

Thy blood, thy righteousness, O Lord my God

I know that deadly evils compass me,

Dark perils threaten, yet I would not fear,

Nor poorly shrink, nor feebly turn to flee,

Thou, O my Christ, art buckler, sword, and spear

But see, the Pillar-cloud is rising now,
And moving onward thro' the desert-night;
It beckens, and I follow, for I know
It leads me to the heritage of light.

Feast after feast thus comes and passes by,
Yet, passing, points to the glad feast above,.
Giving sweet foretaste of the festal joy,
The Lamb's great bridal feast of bliss, and leve.

THE FEAST

Love mightier than the grave,

Broad as the earth, and longer

Than ocean's widest wave

This is the love that sought us,

This is the love that brought us,

This is the love that brought us

To gladdest day from saddest night,

From deepest shame to glory bright,

From depths of death to life's fair height,

From darkness to the joy of light

This is the love that leadeth

Us to his table here,

This is the love that spreadeth

For us this royal cheer.

GOD'S ISRAEL

"HAPPY sons of Israel,
Who in pleasant Canaan dwell," Happy they, but happier we,
If Jehovah's own we be

Happy citizens who wait Within Salem's hallowed gate, Happy they, but happier we Who the heavenly Salem see

Happy sons of Levi there, Who within thy house of prayer Always stand; but happier we, Day and night still praising Thee

Is the city that we love,

Jerusalem our home we call,

Heavenly mother of us all

The first two most of the above are from the old translation of the 66th Psalm by George Sandys.

THE SHADOW OF THE CROSS

Oppress's with noon-day's scorching heat,
To yonder cross I fice,
Beneath its shelter take my seat,
No shade like this for me!

Beneath that cross clear waters burst,
A fountain sparkling free;
And there I quench my desert thirst;
No spring like this for me!

A stranger here, I pitch my tent
Beneath this spreading tree,
Here shall my pilgrim life be spent;
No home like this for me!

For burdened ones a resting-place,
Beside that cross I see,
Here I cast off my weariness,
No rest like this for me!

CHRIST OUR PEACE

I THOUGHT upon my sins, and I was said,

My soul was troubled soro and filled with pain,
But then I thought on Jesus and was glad,

My heavy guef was turned to joy again

- I thought upon the law, the fiery law, Holy, and just, and good in its decree,
- I looked to Jesus, and in Him I saw That law fulfilled, its curse endured for me
- I thought I saw an angry frowning God Sitting as Judge upon the great white throne, My soul was overwhelmed, then Jesus shewed His gracious face, and all my dread was gone
- I saw my sad estate, condemned to dio,

 Then terror seized my heart, and dark despair
 But when to Calvary I turned my eye,

 I saw the cross, and read forgiveness there.

I saw that I was lost, far gone astray,

No hope of safe return there seemed to be,
But then I heard that Jesus was the way,

A new and living way prepared for me

Then in that way, so free, so safe, so sure, Sprinkled all o'er with reconciling blood. Will I abide, and never wander more, Walking along in fellowship with God.

CHILD'S PRAYER

"They that seek me early shall find me "-PROV vin 17.

Holy Saviour ! hear my cry, Holy Saviour ! bend thine car, Holy Spirit! come thou nigh, Father, Saviour, Spirit, hear

Father, save me from my sin, Saviour, I thy mercy crave, Gracious Spirit, make me clean; Father, Son, and Spirit save.

Father, let me taste thy love, Saviour, fill my soul with peace, Spirit, come my heart to move, Father, Son, and Spirit bless.

Father, Son, and Spirit,—thou One Jehovah, shed abroad All thy grace within me now, Be my Father and my God.

CHILD'S MORNING HYMN

"He wakeneth morning by morning, He wakeneth mine car to hear"-Isa 1 4

THE morning, the bright and the beautiful morning
Is up, and the sunshine is all on the wing,
With its fresh flush of gladness the landscape adorning
A gladness which nothing but morning can bring
The earth is awaking, the sky and the ocean,
The river and forest, the mountain and plain,
The city is stirring its living commotion,
And the pulse of the world is reviving again.

And we too awake, for our heavenly Father,
Who soothed us so gently to sleep on his breast,
And made the soft stillness of evening to gather
Around us, now calls us again from our rest
But ere to our labours and duties returning,
We hasten to give him the praise that is meet,
And in solemn devotion, the first hours of morning,
Our freest and freshest we lay at his feet.

Then, happy in heart, not a moment delaying,
In the breeze of the dawning so pleasant and cool,
No loitering, no hingering, no trifling, no playing,
But eager and active, we haste to the school
How sweet are its hours that shine o'er us so brightly,
How pleasant its lessons, how shirt seems the day,
Its hours are but moments, they fly off so lightly,
When we are so busy, so cheerful, and gay

Then away to the school in the sweet summer morning, God's blessing upon us, his light on our road,. And let all the lessons we daily are learning, Be only to bring us more surely to God O now, let us haste to our heavenly Father, And ere the fair skies of life's dawning be dim, Let us come with glad hearts, let us come altogether And the morn of our youth let us hallow to Him

TO M L B

No night descend on thee,
O'er thee no shadows come!
Safe be thy journey through
This vale of cloud and gloom

Daybreak be ever thine,
With fresh and rosy hours,
Calm sunshine of the morn,
Odours and dews and flowers.

Light dwell in thee, and thou

Dwell ever in the light,

No wrinkle on thy brow,

Thine eye still blue and bright.

One long sweet spring be thine,
With buds still bursting through,
Fresh blossoms every hour,
And verdure fair and new.

Peace he thy gentle guest,
Peace holy and divine,
God's blessed sunlight still,
Upon thy pathway shine

And cast out every sin,

His own deep joy impart,

And make a heaven within

THE TWO ERAS OF THE LAND

Or old they surg the song of liberty,
They sung it upon mountain and on plain,
Till every echo of both land and sea
Pealed back the song again.

They poured it on the morning's genial gale,
It floated out upon the evening's calm,
And the rich stream-breeze from each fragrant vale
Gave back the song in balm

The peasant sang it in his straw-roofed cot,
The noble sang it in his princely hall,
Till the vexed land, responding to the note,
Rose up at freedom's call.

The blithe blue morning's newly-wakened ray Of cloudless summer coming freshly down, Saw chains and bondage, tears and slavery, The tyrant's sword and frown. The northern noonday saw the rising war,

Like sudden tempest on a wind-swept sea,.

The shout rose upwards to the evening star,

The land, the land is free!

Amid the oppressor's threats they planted high The ancient flag of sacred liberty, That banner floats unthreatened to the sky,— The Bruce hath set them free!

They sung the song of liberty again,
"Twas a still louder song than that of yore
It went like thunder-notes o'er hill and plain,
It woke each echoing shore.

It woke the heart of age and heedless youth,
It woke the spirit of the sleeping land,
It roused them to the voice of holy truth,
Who could that voice withstand?

Hear ye the truth, and hearing it obey,

Know ye the truth, the truth shall make you free,
Love not the midnight, love the lightsome day,

'Tis life and liberty.

The Free One makes you free, he breaks the rod He bids you lift your he ids to sky and sun, As freemen of the everlasting God, Kneeling to Hun alone

The Free One mokes you face, be slaves to none Priest prince, or sell, in body or in soul, Serve thou with all thy strength thy God alone Yield but to his control.

The True One gives you truth, a heritage Richer than that which kings may buy or sell, For children's children to the farthest age, Guard thou that treasure well

Round went the message, over rock and plain,
Lake burning words from hips of prophet old,
Priest, king, and lord opposed the voice in vain,
It would not be controlled

Wide o'er the land went forth the new born day,
Brightening alike the cet, the hall, the throne,
Long years of darkness vanish at its ray,
Ages of night have gone

The Christ has come, the breaker of all chains,
The giver of the heavenly liberty,
Peace, light, and freedom to these hills and plains !
The land, the land is free!

MARTYR'S HYMN

"The giory of children are their fathers -- I'res xvii 6

There was gladness in Zion, her standard was flying Free o'er her battlements, glorious and gay, All fair as the morning shone torth her adoming, And fearful to foes was her godly array

There is mourning in Zion, her standard is lying Defiled in the dust to the spoiler a prev; And now there is wailing, and somew prevailing, For the best of her children are weeded away

The good have been taken, then place is for-aken,
The man and the maiden, the green and the grey
The voice of the weepers warls over the sleepers,
The martyrs of Scotland that now are away!

The hae of her waters is crimson'd with slaughters,
The blood of the martyrs has redden'd the clay.
And dark desolation broods over the nations,
For the faithful are penshed, the good are away!

On the mountains of heather they slumber together, On the wastes of the moorland their bodies decay. How sound is their sleeping, how sale is their keeping. Though far from their kindred they moulder as a

Their blessings shall hover, their children to cover Lake the cloud of the desert, by night and by day Oh, never to pearsh, their names let us cherish, The marters of Scotland that new are may !

And all the week we say,
O! when wilt thou return!
Come, come away,
Day of glad rest
Of days the best
Sweet Sabbath-day!

THE INNER CALM

Carv me, my God, and keep me calsa, While these hot breezes blow, Be like the night-dew's cooling balin Upon earth's fevered brow

Calm me, my God, and keep me calm, Soft resting on thy breast, Soothe me with hely hymn and psalm, And bid my spirit rest

Calm me, my God, and keep me calm,
Let thine outstretched wing
Be like the shade of Elim's palin,
Beside her desert-spring

Yes, keep me calm, the loud and rude
'The sounds my car that greet,
Calm in the closet's solitude,
Calm in the bustling street.

Calm in the hour of buoyant health, Calm in my hour of pain, Calm in my poverty or wealth, Calm in my loss or gain.

Calm in the sufferance of wrong,
Like Him who bore my shame,
Calm find the threatening, taunting throng,
Who hate thy holy name

Calm when the great world's news with power
My listening spirit stir,
Let not the tidings of the hour
E'er find too fond an ear

Calm as the ray of sun or star
Which storms asked in vain.
Moving unruffled thro' carth's war,
The eternal calm to gain.

THE DISBURDENING

Lay down thy burden here;
With such a weary lead,
Thou can't not climb you hill,
You steep and rugged read.

Tis rough, and wild, and high Thickets and rocks impede, Scant resting-place between, How caust thou upward speed?

Lay down thy burden here,
Poor weary son of time,
So shall thy limbs be strong,
So shalt thou upward climb.

The sun is hot, no cloud

To shield thee from his ray,
It scorches up thy strength,
Stay now, poor climber, stay

Thou breathest hard, the drops
Are on thy burning brow,
Try not another step,
Lay down thy burden now

So shalt thou climb you hill,
Up to its steepest height,
Like eagle of the rock,
With easy joyful flight

So shalt thou bear the toils

Thy God appoints to thee;
So shalt thou serve thy God
In happy liberty.

SURSUM CORD L

Go up, go up, my heart,

Dwell with thy God above,

For here thou canst not rest,

Nor here give out thy love.

Go up, go up, my heart,
Be not a trifler here,
Ascend above these clouds,

Dwell in a higher sphere

Let not thy love flow out
 To things so soiled and dim ,
 Go up to heaven and God,
 Take up thy love to him.

Waste not thy precious stores
On creature-love below;
To God that wealth belongs,
On him that wealth bestow.

Go up, reluctant heart,

Take up thy rest above,

Ause, earth-clinging thoughts,

Ascend, my lingering love 1

THE HEAVENLY SOWING

Sower divine !

Sow the good seed in me, Seed for eternity 'Tis a rough barren soil, Yet by thy care and toil, Make it a fruitful field An hundred fold to yield.

Sower divine, Plough up this heart of mine!

Sower divine !

Quit not this wretched field, Till thou hast made it yield Sow thou by day and night In darkness and in light Stay not thy hand but sow Then shall the harvest grow

Sower divine, Sow deep this heart of mine !

Sower divine!

Let not this barren clay Lead thee to turn away, Let not my fruitlessness Provoke thee not to bless; Let not this field be d. (Refresh it from on high.

Sower divine,
Water this heart of mine!

COMPANIONSHIP

Nor with the light and vain,

The man of idle feet and wanton eyes,

Not with the world's gay, ever-smiling train;

My lot be with the grave and wise

Not with the trifler gay,

To whom life seems but sunshine on the wave,

Not with the empty idler of the day;

My lot be with the wise and grave

Not with the jesting fool,

Who knows not what to sober truth is due,
Whose words fly out without or aim or rule,

My lot be with the wise and true.

Not with the man of dreams,

In whose bright words no truth nor wisdom hee,
Dazzling the fervent youth with mystic gleams,

My lot be with the simply wise.

With them I'd walk each day,

From them time's solemn lessons would I-leain
That false from true, and true from false I may Each hour more patiently discern

THE TIME TO MEET.

Tis autumn now;

And as we part,
The dry brown leaf
Is rustling o'er the ground,
Making the sadness sadder, and the cloud
Of the long farewell deeper in its gloom.

Not thus let us meet,

'Mid falling leaves

And sero, frost-stricken flowers;

But when the leaf is budding in its freshness,

And the rich blossom putting forth its gladness.

Not thus let us meet:

It is too sad;

But when the buried verdure

Is coming up to meet the joyous sun,

When the new spring looks round upon the hills,

Full of youth's buoyant promise and bright song,

Then let us meet.

Yes, when the spring-breeze blows,
And the gay garden blooms,
And the wide forest waves with budding green,
And the freed streamlet warbles thro' the broom,
And the clear air takes up the happy note
Of skylark singing to the rosy dawn,

Then let us meet;

And meeting, cheer each other's weary heart With the dear hope of everlasting spring, And the fair land that spreads beneath the slopes Of the eternal hills,

Where nothing dies,
Where nothing fades,
But all is without ending or decay,
The sky, the sun, the light,
The peace, the truth, the love,
And above all, the joy!

GONE BEFORE

Thou art in heaven, and I am still on earth,
"The years, long years since we were parted here,
I still a wanderer aimid grief and fear,
And thou the tenant of a brighter sphere

Yet still thou seemest near,
But yesterday it seems,
Since the last clasp was given,
Since our lips met,
And our eyes looked into each other's depths.

Thou art amid the deathless, I still here, Amid things mortal, in a land of graves, A land o'er which the heavy-beating waves Of changing time move on, a land where raves

The storm, which whose braves
Must have his anchor fixed,
Firmly within the veil,—
So let my anchor be;
Such be my consolation and my hope!

Thou art amid the sorrowless, I here,
Amid the sorrowing, and yet not long
Shall I remain 'mid sin, and fear, and wrong.
Soon shall I join you in your sinless song.

Thy day has come, not gone,
Thy sun has risen, not set,
Thy life is now beyond
The reach of death or change,
Not ended but begun
Such shall our life be soon,
And then,—the meeting-day,
How full of light and joy!
All fear of change cast out,
All shadows passed away,
The union sealed for ever
Between us and our Lord.

THE ELDER BROTHER

YES, for me, for me he careth
With a brother's tender care,
Yes, with me, with me he shareth
Every burden, every fear

Yes, o'er me, o'er me he watcheth, Ceascless watcheth, night and day Yes, even me, even me he snatcheth From the perils of the way.

Yes, for me he standeth pleading, At the mercy-seat above; Ever for me interceding, Constant in untiring love

Yes, in me abroad he sheddeth
Joys unearthly, love and light,
And to cover me he spreadeth
His paternal wing of might.

Yes, in me, in me, he dwelleth;
I in him and he in me!
And my empty soul he filleth,
Here and through eternity.

Thus I wait for his returning.
Singing all the way to heaven,
Such the joyful song of morning,
Such the tranquil song of even · LIFE FROM THE DEAD.

Simil of everlasting grace,

Infinite source of life, come down!

These tembs unlock, these dead upraise,

Thy glorious power and love make known.

Breathe o'er this valley of the dead,
Send forth thy quickening might abroad,
Till, rising from their tombs, they spread,
In full array,—the host of God!

Thy heritage hes desolate,
And all thy pleasant places mourn;
O look upon our low estate,
In loving kindness Lord return t

Now let thy glory be revealed.

Now let thy presence with us rest;
O heal us, and we shall be healed!
O bless us, and we shall be blest!

IT IS FINISHED

BLESSED be God, our God †

Who gave for us his well-beloved Son,
His gift of gifts, all other gifts in one.
Blessed be God, our God !

What will he not bestow?

Who freely gave this mighty gift, unbought,
Unmerited, unheeded, and unsought,
What will He not bestow?

He spared not His Son!

'Tis this that silences each rising fear,

'Tis this that bids the hard thought disappear,
'He spared not His Son!

Who shall condemn us now?

Since Christ has died, and ris'n, and gone above,

For us to plend at the right hand of love,

Who shall condemn us now?

11

"Tis God that justifies!

Who shall recall the pardon or the grace,
Or who the broken chain of guilt replace?

Tis God that justifies!

The victory is ours!

For us in might came forth the Mighty One, For us he fought the light, the triumph won; The victory is ours?

BE brave, my brother i

Fight the good fight of faits.

With wtapons proved and true,

Be faithful and unshrinking to the death

Thy God will bear thee through,

The strife is terrible,

Yet 'tis not, 'tis not long;

The fee is not invincible,

Though fierce and strong.

Be brave, my brother!
The recompense is great,
The kingdom bright and fair,
Beyond the glory of all earthly state,
Shall be the glory there
Grudge not the heavy cost,
Faint not at labour here,
The but a life-time at the most,
The day of rest is near.

Be brave, my brother?

He, whom thou servest, slights

Not ev'n his weakest one,

No deed, tho' poor, shall be forgot,

However feebly done.

The prayer, the wish; the thought,

The faintly spoken word,

The plan that seemed to come to nought,

Each has its own roward

Be brave, my brother,

Enlarge thy heart and soul;

Spread out thy free glad love,

Encompass earth, embrace the sea,

As does that sky above.

Let no man see thee stand

In slothful idleness,

As if there were no work for thee

In such a wilderness.

Be brave, my brother?

Stint not the liberal hand,

Give in the joy of love;

So shall thy crown be bright, and great

Thy recompense above;

Reward,—not like the deed,

That poor weak deed of thine,

But like the God himself who gives,

'Eternal and divine.

EVER NEAR

Saviour, ever near!
I hit my soul on high
Thro' the darkness diear.
Be thou my light, I cry,
Saviour, ever dear!

I feel thine arms around,
Saviour, ever near !
With thee let me be found,
So shall I never fear,
Whatever ills abound,
Saviour, ever dear!

Thine is the day and night,
Saviour, ever near;
Thine is the dark and light;
Be thou my covert here
O shield me with thy might,
Saviour, ever dear!

And when I come to die,
Saviour, ever near,
Receive my parting sigh.
And in the hour of fear,
Be to my spirit nigh,
Saviour, ever dear I

OREATION.

In the beginning was THE WORE;
The Word was God.

In the beginning was the Word;
And His abode
From everlasting was with God.

His name

I AM,

Jehovali, God, the Lord.

Ever to be adored:

The eternal Son,

The ever blessed one.

From all, to all eternity,

The brightness of the eternal Father's glory He !

Creator of the heaven and earth,

Their Lord and King.

Creator of the heaven and earth,

The angels sing!

To him all praise and glory bring;

His power

From which all things had birth, By which they still stand forth

In beauty glad,

With heavinly radiance clad
Praise, praise His ever-flowing love,
That brightens all below, and gladdens all above.

"Let there be light," 'twas He that spoke,

"And there was light."

"Let there be light," 'twas He that spoke,

And the long night

At His divine command took flight

The ray

Of day

O'er the deep darkness broke, The sleeping world-awoke:

Earth, sea, and sky

Burst forth in praises high

To Him who made the light to be !-

He is the Light of light, and there is none but He !

This green, glad, goodly earth of ours
His hand did frame

This green, glad, goodly earth of ours

Doth still proclaim,

By day and night, His wondrous name.

These seas

Are His

Each mountain-peak that towers, These clouds with their fresh showers;

These streams that run

Quick-glancing in the sun,

These tossing woods, these trembling flowers, And all that mencall bright in this bright world of ours.

All that has life and breath He made, In earth, sea, sky.

All that has life and breath He made,

To swim or fly,

To oreep or bound, and, in his eye,

All good

They stood,

In beauty pure arrayed,

As if they could not fade.

How fair this frame,

How excellent His name,

Who, in the fulness of His love,

Transplanted thus to earth the Paraduse above !

All glory to the eternal WORD,

Earth's Lord and King:

All glory to the eternal Word,

Ye angels, sing.

Ye sons of earth, your tribute bring:

His name

Proclaim,-

Jehovah, God, the Lord;

Ever to be ador'd,

Maker of all,

Before him prostrate fall:

By every voice, and tribe, and tongue,

For ever and for ever be His praises sung.

DESERT LILIES.

DESERT lilies, desert lilies I

Blooming gaily in the sand

Of this untrodden land,

With your leaf as soft and green,

With your flower as fair in tint,

As delicate in form,

As beautiful in hue,

As fragrant and as fresh,

As sweet at morn or even,

As bright with smiles and dew,

As in our happier plains

Cherished by genial rains.

Desort lilies, desert lilies!

Shining quietly like gems,

Upon your verdant stems,

With no breath of man to dim you,

With no city-smoke to taint you,

With no hand of man to pluck you,

With no eye of man to see you,

With no care of man to tend you,

With no child's glad face to watch you,
As you spring and as you bloom,
With no sorrowing lip to mount you,
As you fade and as you die.

Nought but, the wind's caress
In this lone wilderness !

Desert blies, desert tilies!

Bidding welcome to the ray

Of this fierce-flaming day,

Courting no cloud nor shade

Of rock, or cliff, or glade,

Opening your purple eyes

Unfeating to these skies

What sunlight ye have seen,
What moonshine in these heavens,
What starlight clear and glad,
What soft dew at early dawn,
What cool breezes o'er this waste!
What sunsets ye have seen,
On these wondrous peaks around,
What tints of purple glow,
At sunset or at morn!
What strange and selemn airs
Have ye heard, as all night long

Ye listened, night by night, Coming forth from you wild crags, Moving out along these slopes, Stealing down you mighty hill To the silent sands beneath, Creeping thro' the wiry boughs Of these turfas, far and near!

O life, how glad and blest, Thou seem'st in such a waste! O beauty what a power, To cheer in longliest hour! O earth, where is the spot, Which thy God visits not? On which his eye of light Rests not in gentle love, O'er its most barren sands, Rejoicing from above ! O desert rocks, if one small leaf, Can make these wastes look fair, What will ye be when these scorched plains, Earth's richest buds shall bear? When eastern suns shall cease to scorch, And storms no more destroy, And these lone valleys shall give forth Their streams, and flowers, and joy

THE FRIEND

There is a star in yonder sky,

Above all stars it seems to shine,

The long since first it fixed my eye,

And I have learned to call it mine.

It rose out of my own blue sea,

Then passed above those mountains green,

Moving along all placidly

As if it loved to watch the scene

Far up the heavens it floated slow Gleaming across you selemn tower, As if it leved the scene below,— A willing lingerer hour by hour.

It seemed to take its place each night,
A sentinel to guard my rest,
An eye of love and gentle light,
Pouring sweet thoughts into my breast.

In through my lattice as I lay
Half soothed to sleep, it nightly shone,
And as I gazed upon its ray
I felt that I was not alone

What tears that gentle star has dwed,
What joy that sparkling orb has given,
Thoughts for this earth too high, too wide,
Dreams of its own all-radiant heaven.

It spoke of day beyond this night,
In the glad land where all is fair;
It pointed to the home of light,
And bid me rest my spirit there.

It spoke of Him whose love is light,
Whose death is life, whose cross is peace,
Whose favour is the star of night,
The source and pledge of endless bliss.

May I not love that star on high?

May not its light the fairest seem?

May I not trace a loving eye,

A kindly smile in every beam?

· SUMMER GLADNESS.

What a scene, would it but stay,
What an earth, if all its morrows
Were as fair as this "to-day!"

When earth's summer-pulse is beating
With the fever-fire of June,
And the flowers fling up their greeting,
Quivering to the joyous noon.

When the streamlet, smiling gladly, Hurries calmly, brightly by, Not a voice around speaks sadly, Not a murmur nor a sigh.

Sunbeams, with their fond caresses,
Smooth each rosebud's velvet fold,
Lingering in the glowing tresses
Of you rich laburnum's gold.

Nature all its gay adorning
Opens to the day's bright bliss,
Like a child at early morning,
Wakened by its mother's kiss.

What a world ' when all its somow
Shall for ever pass away !
What an earth ! when each "to-morrow
Shall be fairer than "to-day."

THE BLANK.

The flowers of Spring have come and gone,
Bright were the blossoms, brief their stay,
They shone, and they were shone upon,
They flourished, faded, passed away
So, hidden from our sorrowing eyes,
Our young, sweet, spring-bloom buried less
One blast of earth swept o'er the flower,
It died, the blossom of an hour

The Summer flowers are freshly blowing
Beneath glad July's genial morn;
Like smiles the face of earth bestrowing,
For fragrance and for beauty born,
My summer-flower has passed away,
'Tis now a blank, where all was gay,
A blank, where at each evening's close,
I hoped to watch my budding rose

Soon Autumn, with o'erflowing measure,
Will hang upon each bending tree
The clusters of its golden treasure,
The life of earth's vast family.
Alas, in one disastrous hour,
From my green vine has fallen the flower
A blighted hue its branches wear,
My autumn-tree looks cold and bare.

And Winter, with its blast wide-roaming,
In cloud and darkness shall come forth
Beneath its grave of snow entombing
The varied verdure of the earth.
But my sweet blossom salely laid,
Beneath you cloister's solemn shade,
In gentle undisturbed repose,
Shall sleep in winter's grave of snows.

CHOOSE WELL

O quam dulco, quam jucundum Erit tunc odisso mundum , Et Juam triete, quam amarum Mundum habusso carum

OLD HYME.

- O DEAD in sin!
 Wilt thou still choose to die
 The death of deaths eternally?
 Dost thou not fear the gloom
 Of the eternal tomb?
- O dead to life!

 Wilt thou the life from heaven
 Reject? the life so freely given;

 Wilt thou choose sin and tears

 Through everlasting years?
- O dead to Christ I
 Wilt thou despise the love
 Of Him who stooped from joy above,
 To shame on earth for thee,
 That he might set thee free?

O dead to God !

Wilt thou not seek his face?
Wilt thou not turn and own the grace?
Wilt thou not take the heaven,
So freely to thee given?

THE USEFUL LIFE

Ψυχή μου, ζυχή μου, Αναστα, ξι /αθευδεις ΟLD GREEK HYMN

Go labour on, spend, and be spent,— Thy joy to do the Father's will,
It is the way the Master went,
Should not the servant tread it still?

Go labour on, 'tis not for nought;
Thy earthly loss is heavenly gain,
Men heed thee, love thee, praise thee not,
The Master praises,—what are men?

Go labour on, enough, while here,
If he shall praise thee, if he deign
Thy willing heart to mark and cheer;
No toil for Him shall be in vain.

Go labour on, your hands are weak,
Your knees are faint, your soul cast down,
Yet falter not, the prize you seek,
Is near,—a kingdom and a crown!

Go, labour on, while it is day,
The world's dark right's hastening on,
Speed, speed thy work, cast sloth away
It is not thus that sould are won

Men die in darkness at your side,
Without a hope to cheer the tomb,
Take up the torch and wave it wide,
The torch that lights time's thickest gloom

Toil on, faint not, keep watch and pray,
Be wise the erring soul to win,
Go forth into the world's highway,
Compel the wanderer to come in

Toil on, and in thy toil rejoice,

For toil comes rest, for exile home,

Soon shalt thou hear the Bridegroom's voice,

The midnight peal, behold I come!

TWAS I THAT DID IT

I see the crowd in Pilate's hall,
I mark their wrathful mien,
Their shouts of 'crucify' appall,
With blaspher y between.

And of that shouting multitude
I feel that I am one,
And in thet din of reison rade.

And of that shouting multitude I feel that I am one.

I see the scourges tear his back,
I see the piercing crown,
And of that crowd who smite and mock,
I feel that I am one.

Around you cross, the throng I see,
Mocking the sufferer's grean,
Yet still my voice it seems to be,
As if I mocked alone

"Twas I that shed the sacred blood,
I nailed him to the tree,
I crucified the Christ of God,
I joined the mockery

Yet not the less that blood avails

To cleause away m7 sin,

And not the less that cross prevails

To give me peace within.

PASSING THROUGH

- I walk as one who knows that he is treading A stranger soil,
- As one round whom a serpent-world is spreading its subtle coil.
- I walk as one but yesterday deliver'd

 From a sharp chain,

 Who trembles lest the bond so newly sever'd

Be bound again

- I walk as one who feels that he is breathing Ungerial air,
- For whom as wiles, the tempter still is wreathing.

 The bright and fair
- My steps, I know, are on the plans of danger, For sin is near,
- But looking up, I pass along, a stranger, In haste and fear.

- This earth has lost its power to drag me downward. Its spell is gone,
- My course is now right upward, and right onward,

 To youder throne
- Hour after hour of time's dark/night is stealing In gloom away,
- Speed thy fair dawn of light and joy and healing, Thou Star of day
- For thee its God, its King, the long-rejected, Earth groans and cries
- For thee the long-beloved, the long-expected,
 Thy Bride still sighs!

FORWARD

Shall this vineyard he untilled? Shall true joy pass by untasted, And this soul remain unfilled?

Shall the God-given hours be scattered, Like the leaves upon the plain? Shall the blossoms die unwatered By the drops of heavenly rain?

Shall I see each fair sun waking,
And not feel it wakes for me?

Each glud morning brightly breaking,
And not feel it breaks for me?

Shall I see the roses blowing,
And not wish to bloom as they?
Holy fragrance round me throwing,
Luring others on the way

Shall I hear the free bird singing, In the summer's stainless sky, Far aloft its glad flight winging, And not seek to soar as high?

Shall this heart still spend its treasures
On the things that fixle and die,
Shall it court the hollow pleasures
Of bewildering vanity?

Shall I open them in vain?

Shall I not, with God's own bridle,

Their frivolities restrain?

Shall these eyes of mine still wander?

Or, no longer turned afar,

Fix a firmer gaze and fonder

On the bright and morning Star?

Shall these feet of mine, delaying
Still in ways of sin be found,
Braving snares and madly straying
On the world's bewitching ground?

No, I was not born to trifle
Life away in dreams or sin!
No, I must not, dare not stifle
Longings such as these within!

Swiftly moving, apward, onward, Let my soul in faith be borne, Calmly gazing, skyward, sunward, Let my eye unshrinking turn!

Where the Cross, God's love revealing, Sets the fettered spirit free, Where it sheds its wondrous healing, There my soul, thy rest shall be

Then no longer idly dreaming
Shall I fling my years away,
But, each precious hour redeeming,
Wait for the eternal day!

NOTHING BETWEEN.

FONDLY, foundly returneth the daylight

To the old hill's grey peak ere the dawn has begun;
Slowly, slowly recedeth the day-light

From the old hill's grey peak when the long day is done

Softly, softly returneth the rapple,

To its rest on the sand of you given-margined buy,
Sadly, sadly recedeth the rapple

To mangle again with the sea's drifting spray

Gladly, gladly the dew of the twilight,
Floats up to the rainbow at blush of the dawn,
Slowly, slowly the dew of the twilight,
Seeks the dark sod again when the sun is withdrawn

It is thus, even thus, that the sunlight of heaven, Returns and retires with the morn and the even,' Thus slowly retiring as sleep scals the eye, Returning at day-spring with joy from on high. Night's last gleam and truest, my God's gracious love, Morn's ilist beam and fondest, his joy from above

Yet, 'tis not night alone that comes between
My God and me, to mar the peaceful scene,
But the world's blazing day, hour after hour,
Beats on my head, and with its scorehing power
Dries up my dew and sap, nay dims my eye
With its bewildering blaze of vanity
Then comes the quiet and the cool of night,
'To give me back the calm, of which the light
Of this gay world had sought me to hereave
O gentle shadows of the tranquil eve!
Eve with thy stillness and soul-soothing balm,
What do I owe thee for thy solemn calm!
Thou comest down like some peace-bringing dove,
To soothe and cheer me with thy silent love.

FOLLOW THOU ME

Restore to me the freshness of my youth,

And give me back my soul's keen edge again,
That time has blunted! O, my early truth,—
Shall I not you regain?

Ah, mine has been a wasted, life at best,
All unreality and long unrest,
Yes, I have lived in vain!

But now no more in vain, my soul awake,

Shake off the snare, untwist the fastening chain:

Arise, go forth, the selfish slumber break,

'Thy idle dreams restrain!

Still half thy life before thee lies untrod,

Inve for the endless living, live for God,

I must not live in vain!

My God! the way is rough and sad the night,

And my soul faints and broathes this weeping strain.

And the world hates me with its bitterest spite,—

For I have left its train,

With thee and with thy saints to cast my lot,
Ah, my dear Lord, let me not be forgot,
Let me not live in vain !

Can we not part in silence, since for ever,

This world and I? From scorn and taunt refrain?

Must it still hate and wound? still stir the fever

Of this poor throbbing brain?

Ali, yes, it must be so, my God, my God,

"I'is the true discipline, the needed rod,

Else I should live in vain!

The foe is strong, his venomed rage I dread,
Yet, O my God, lo thou his wrath restrain,
Shield me in battle, soothe my aching head
In the shaip hour of pain.
But more than this, oh give me toiling faith,
Large-hearted love, and zeal unto the death:
Let me not live in vain.

Restore to me the freshness of my youth,

And give me back my soul's keen edge again:

Ah, let my spring return! bright hope and truth

Shall I not you regain?

No wasted life, my God, shall mine now be,

Hours, days, and years filled up with toil for thee:

I shall not live in vain!

VANITY

Τα άληθως άγαθα ουκ εστιν εν τῆ κατηραμενῆ γῆ (Dright)

NAY 'tis not what we fancied it,
This magic world of ours,
We thought its skies were only blue,
Its fields all sun and flowers,

Its streams all summer-bright and glad,
Its seas all smiles and calms,
Its paths from youth to age, one long
Green avenue of palms

But clouds came up with gloom and shade, Our sky was overcast, The hot mist threw its blight around, Sunshine and flowers went past

Hopes perished, that had hung like wrenths
Around youth's buoyant brow,
And joys, like withered autumn leaves,
Dropped from the shaken bough.

Yet from these clouds comes forth the light, light beaming from on high,
And from these faded flowers spring up
The flowers that cannot die

Far fairer is the land we seek,
A land without a temb,
An everlasting resting-place,
A sure and quiet home

Far sunnier than the hills of time Are its eternal hills, Far fresher than the rills of earth Are its eternal rills

No blight can fall upon its flowers, No darkness fill its air, It has a day for ever bright, For Christ its sun is there

O Sun of love and peace, arise,
Thy light upon us ceam,
For all this life is but a sleep,
And all this world a dream.

OLD WORDS

מדאם אמף בים דון מאושבות בדון - אונווונו

Was this earth sunnier in the days of old? Or was it but the eye that looked on it, That then was fresher, happier, in the youth And manhood of our race? Were springs more bught, And summers lovelier, lighted up by sun-Long set,—suns of a younger heaven than ours" Was the air purer ero the heavy breath Of ages had gone up to posson it? Did the long gleam upon the ancient Nile Blaze in a richer radiance to the noon, When history's old father gazed upon it? Or was the sunshme on the hills of Greece Purer when Homer sang and Sappho wept: Or was the brow of Lebanon more fair With whiter snow-wreaths, when the kings of Tyre Builded their marble palaces beneath The mighty shadow of its haughty peaks?

Was this earth summer in the days of old? Or was the glory hovering o'er its hills. And wandering thro' the unfathomable stretch Of its old skies, of which men fondly tell, But the gay vision of a fresher eye, When this old race was younger, and men's steps Went with more lawyant freedom over earth? Or was it all a dream, a dream of youth, When dreams are happiest? Is it still a dream, Well-dreamt in these our plays, when men look out With sad eye on the present, as if clouds, Unknown in other days, had settled down Upon our hills to shut out sun and stars " I know not. Yet I love to wander back To the earth's younger days and earlier scenes, In which there seem to meet both age and youth, The blossom and the fruit, the joy of dawn, And the grave quiet of the solemn eve

Was the world wiser in the days of old,
When in this land our fathers died for truth?
Or is the wisdom of these ancient times,
A fable well-devised, to keep us lowly?
And are the words and thoughts of other days,
The martyr-words and thoughts, and above all
The martyr-deeds of mighty men whose hair

Grew grey before its time, whose youthful face Grew early pale, and o'er whose thoughtful brow Age drew its furrows, prematurely deep,-Are these old words and thoughts and noble deeds, But meant for them who heard and saw them then. But overlated now, unsuitable For manhood and full age, like that to which We have attained in these our riper times? It cannot be so, truth is ever true, In this age or the last, and error false, To day as it was yesterday. No age Can outgrow truth, or can afford to part With the tried wisdom of the past, with words That centuries have sifted, and on which Ages have set their seal, and handed down From venerable hips of solemn men, Who learned their wisdom in a graver school, And in an age of keener, sorer conflict Than we have known in this gay holiday, When truth and error are but things of taste, Changelings of fashion, altering year by year Guard then those ancient wells, those living springs,

Guard then those ancient wells, those living springs, Of which our fathers drank and were refreshed. Guard then these ancient palms beneath whose shade Our fathers have sat down, and of whose fruit They are and went upon their way in peace Part not with these old names, each one of which Bears in its bosom precious histories, The life-deeds and death-conflicts of the men From out whose loins we spring, the men of might And wisdom, who have won such victories Of truth for us: These venerable names And words preserve, as an inheritance For children's children to the latest age Part not with these old names and words, each one Contains an everlasting history, A great soul's history, which like a pearl Within its shell lies hid Fling not away The shell because unpolished and uncouth, Lest in so doing thou shouldst fling away The zem whose lustre hes unseen within It is not beauty, it is truth we seek And it is truth that men would thing away, Because its outward garb is rude and homely Yet truth is beauty, best of beauty here, And beauty is but hidden truth unfolded, Like blossoms from the rough brown buds of spring Part not with these old names. See how they shine In these old heavens, like stars, whose rays no age Can dim, nor boastful art of man supplant, By lights, the invention of his fruitful skill.

They lighted up the darkness of the ways
By which our fathers walked in joy to heaven;
Not now less needful nor less glad their beams
I'art not with these old names and words, each one
Is as a seed, the womb of hidden life,
And he that flings away a seed destroys
The future harvest of a hundred fields.
Part not with these old names, in each of them
Our fathers wrapt up wisdom for their sons,
And their sons' sons down to earth's latest day.
What thoughts are chinging round them, thick as dew
Upon the fields of the fresh summer's grass,
Mellow as fruit upon the autumn-trees!

Say not, our age is wiser, if it be,

It is the wisdom which the past has given

That makes it so, for in these names is written

That wondrous wisdom that has made us wise.

MACHPELAH.

Only a tomb, no more!
A rock-hewn sepulchre,
And this, and this is all that's thine,
Fair Canaan's mighty heir!

Only a tomb, no more to future resting-place,
When God shall lay thee down, and bid All thy long wand'rings cease

This cave and field, no more,

Canst thou thy dwelling call,

That land of thine, plains, hills, woods, streams,

The stranger has it all!

Thy altar and thy tent

Are all that thou hast here,

With these content, thou passest on,

A homeless wanderer.

Thy life unrest and toil,

Thy course a pilgrimage,

Only in death thou goest down,

To claim thy heritage,

A heritage which death
Shall seal to thee for aye.
A resurrection heritage

A resurrection heritage
When all things pass away.

A home of endless peace,
Beyond these hills of strife;
When these old rocks give up their dead
And death shall end in life

A heritage of life,
Beyond this guarded gloom,
A kingdom, not a field or cave;
A city, not a tomb.

THE OLD JEW ON MOUNT MORIAH

He stood bewildered on his lonely hearth,
Sadness was written on his fixed brow,
For he had witnessed days of holy mirth
Where silence dwells, and desolation now.
The grief he felt he cared-not to avow,
Calmly he stood, yet sorrowfully too,
The latest leaf upon the topmost bough
Of the green clive that so lately threw
Aloft its Jeafy arms when the glad spring was new.

Friendless and homeless! How unlike the past!
Once honoured scion of a noble stem,
But now forsaken, desolate, the last
Bright jewel of a kingly diadem,
The last dim dew-drop of all those that gem
The still lone valley when the sunbeams fall.
He trod his ancient hills, but found on them
Nought but his shivered altar-shrines, for all
Was tomb-like hushed, and dark as with a funeral pall.

THE SHEPHERDS' PLAIN

' Dum servant oves invonorunt Agrum Dei "-JEROME

BLESSED night, when first that plain Echoed with the joyful strain,— "Peace has come to earth again"

Blessed hills, that heard the song Of the glorious angel-throng, Swelling all your slopes along.

Happy shepherds, on whose ear Fell the tidings glad and dear, "God to man is drawing near"

Happy she pherds, on whose eye, Shone the glory from on high, Of the heavenly Majesty. Happy, happy Bethlehem, Judah's least but brightest gem, 'Where the rod from Jesse's stem,

Scion of a princely race,

Sprung in heaven's own perfect grace,

Yet in feeble lowliness

This, the woman's promised seed, Abram's mighty son indeed, Succourer of earth's great need.

This the victor in our war,
This the glory seen afar,
Flais the light of Jacob's star!

Happy Judah, rise and own Him, the heir of David's throne, David's Lord, and David's Son

Babe of promise, born at last, After weary ages past, When our hopes were overcast.

Babe of weakness, can it be, That earth's last great victory Is to be achieved by thee? Child of meckness, can it be, That the proud rebellious knee Of this world shall bend to thee

Child of poverty, art thou He to whom all heaven shall bow, And all earth shall pay the vow,

Can that feeble head alone Bear the weight of such a crown, As belongs to David's Son?

Can these helpless hands of thine Wield a sceptre so divine,
As belongs to Jesse's line?

Heir of pain and toil, whom none In this evil day will own, Art thou the Eternal One?

Thou, o'er whom the sword and rod Wave, in haste to drink thy blood, Art thou very Son of God?

Thus revealed to shepherds' eyes, Hidden from the great and wise, Entering earth in lowly guise,— Entering by this narrow door, Laid upon this rocky floor, Placed in yonder manger poor

We adore thee as our King, And to thee our song we sing, Our best offering to thee bring

Guarded by the shepherds' rod, 'Mid their flock thy poor abode, Thus we own thee, Lamb of God.

Lamb of God, thy lowly name, King of kings, we thee proclaim, ! Icaven and earth shall hear its fame

Bearer of our sins' sad load, Wielder of the iron rod, Judah's Lion, Lamb of God!

Mighty King of righteousness, King of glory, king of peace, Never shall thy kingdom cease !

Thee, earth's heir and Lord, we own; Raise again its fallen throne, Take its everlasting crown Blessed Babe of Bethlehem, Owner of carth's diadem, Claim, and wear the radiant gem.

Scatter darkness with thy light, End the sorrows of our night, Speak the word, and all is bright.

the spoiler of the earth, Bring creation's second birth, Promised day of song and mirth

This thine Israel's voice that calls, Build again thy Salem's walls, Dwell within her holy halls

"Tis thy Church's voice that cries, Rend these long unrended skies, Bridegroom of the Church, arise

Take to thee thy power and reign, Purify this earth again, Cleause it from each curse and stain.

Sun of peace, no longer stay, Let the shadows flee away, And the long night end in day. Let the dayspring from on high, That arose in Judah's sky, Cover earth eternally.

Babe of Bethlehem, to thee, Infant of eternity, Everlasting glory be !

COME, LORD

"Senut mundus' -AUGUSTINE

Come, Lord, and tarry not,
Bring the long-looked-for day,
Oh why these years of waiting here,
These ages of delay?

Come, for thy saints still wait,
 Daily ascends their sigh,
 The Spirit and the Bride say, Come,
 Dost thou not hear the cry?

Come, for creation groams,
Impatient of thy stay,
Worn out with these long years of ill
These ages of delay

Come, for thy Israel pines,
An exile from thy fold,
O call to mind thy faithful word,
And bless them as of old.

Come, for thy foes are strong,

With taunting lip they say,

"Where is the promised Advent now,

And where the dreaded day"

Come, for the good are few,

They lift the voice in vain,

Faith waxes fainter on the earth,

And love is on the wane

Come, for the truth is weak,

And error pours abroad

Its subtle poison o'er the earth,—

An earth that hates her God

Come, for love waxes cold.

Its steps are faint and slow,

Faith now is lost in unbelief,

Hope's lamp burns dim and low

Come, for the grave is full,

Earth's tombs no more can hold,

The sated sepulchres rebel,

And groans the heaving mould.

Come, for the corn is ripe,
Put in thy sickle now,
Reap the great harvest of the earth
Sower and reaper thou!

Come, in thy glorious might Come with the iron rod
Scattering thy foes before thy face
Most mighty Son of God

Come, spoil the strong man's house,
Bind him and cast him hence
Shew thyself stronger than the strong,
Thyself Ommpotence

Come, and make all things now, Build up this ruined earth, Restore our faded Paradise, Creation's second birth

Come, and begin thy reign
Of everlasting peace,
Come, take the kingdom to thyself,
Great King of righteousness.

THY WAY, NOT MINE

Tuy way, not mine. O Lord, However dark it be ! Lead me by thine own hand, Choose out the path for me.

Smooth let it be or rough, It will be still the best. Winding or straight, it leads Right onward to thy rest

I dare not choose my lot
I would not, if I might,
Choose thou for me, my God,
So shall I walk aright

The kingdom that I seek
Is thine, so let the way
That leads to it be thine,
Else I must surely stray

Take thou my cup, and it
With joy or sorrow fill,
As best to thee may seem,
Choose thou my good and ill

Choose thou for me my friends,
My sickness or my health,
Choose thou my cares for me,
My poverty or wealth

Not mine, not mine the choice, In things or great or small, Be thou my guide, my strength, My wisdom, and my all.

ALLELUIA

(FROM THE LATIN.)

ALLELUIA, Alleluia'
The battle now is done,
The victory is won,
Let us joy and sing
Alleluia!

Alleluia, Alleluia ¹
Suffering death's cruel doom,
Jesus hath hell o'ercome,
Let us praise and shout
Alleluia!

Alleluia, Alleluia!

He rose the third day, bright
In heavenly love and light,
Let us cry and chant
Alleluia!

260 MIFIUA

Allchna, Allchna!
Closed are the gates below,
Heaven's halfs are open now,
Let us joy and sing
Allchna!

Allelma, Allelma !

Jesus, by thy wounds save
Us from the endless grave,

That we may hip and sing Allelma!*

I give the first stanza of the above hymu as a specimen;

LIVE

Make haste, O man, to live
For thou so soon must die,
Time liuries past thee like the breeze
How swift its moments fly
Make haste, O man, to live!

To breathe, and wake, and sleep
To smile, to sigh, to grieve,
To move in idleness through earth
This, this is not to live!

Make haste, O man, to live!

Make haste, O man, to do

Whatever must be done,
Thou hast no time to lose in sloth,
Thy day will soon be gone

Make haste, O man to hive!

Up then with speed, and work,

Fing ease and self away,

This is no time for thee to sleep,

Up, watch and work and pray!

Make haste, () man, to live!

The useful, not the great,

The thing that never dies,

The silent toil that is not lost,

Set these before thene eyes

Make haste, O man, to live I

The seed, whose leaf and flower,
Tho' poor in human sight,
Bring forth at last the eternal fruit,
Sow thou both day and night
Make haste, O man, to live f

Make haste, O man, to live,

Thy time is almost o'er,
O sleep not, dream not, but arise,
The Judge is at the door.

Make haste, O man, to live it

THE MARTYR'S GRAVE

The moss is green upon the stone
The stone lies heavy on the mould;
The spot is dreary, sad, and lone,
The forest an is cold.

The sky above is wan and bleak,

The ground beneath is brown and bare;

No living voice intrudes to break

The tranquil silence there

Another breeze among the boughs,
And then another leafy shower
Comes rustling down, the sadness grows
More and more sad each hour

The shadow of the drifting cloud Falls chilly on these gloomy firs, Deepening the darkness of the wood; Hardly a leaflet stirs. Quick-twinkling thro' the leafy screen,
November stray gleams go and corre
Half-hidden by the shade, is seen.
The old and well-known tomb

Here sleeps the martyr's weary head, Here softly monlders holy dust, With the wild wood-moss overspread, Resting in silent trust

No summer flowers breathe sweetness here, It is a lone forsaken spot, Round he the leaves of autumn sere, The leaf that changes not

Far from man's voice of love or strile,
"The fit that here his grave should be,
In death an outeast as in life,
Unnamed in history

Young hopes, young friendships, joys of earth, Had passed him by like summer-dicains. Solemn his life had been from birth, Like march of mountain streams. Changeful his lot, like you vexed sky,
When moorland breezes wildly blow,
It is weary soul now rests on high,
His body sleeps below

Rest, weary dust, he here an hour Ere long, like blossom from the sod Thou shalt come forth a glorious flower, Fit for the eye of God

ALL WELL

No seas again shall sever,.

No desert intervene,

No deep, sad-flowing river

Shall roll its tide between

No bleak cliffs upward towering, Shall bound our eager sight, No tempest darkly lowering, Shall wrap us in its night

Love, and unsevered union,
Of soul with those we love,
Nearness and glad communion
Shall be our joy above

No dread of wasting sickness, No thought of ache or pain, No fretting hours of weakness, Shall mar our peace again No death our homes o'ershading Shall e'er our harps unstring. For all is life unfading, In presence of our King

LINKS

And tones of music strangely sweet,

And tones of music strangely dear,
So lovingly the soul they givet,
So kindly steal they on the ear

We know not why they strike so deep

We cannot tell the secret spring

Within us, which they wake from sleep,

Nor how such thoughts their notes can bring

We ask not why nor how they thrill

So keenly through the immost soul,
And why when ceased, we listen still,

As though they yet upon us stole

We feel the sweetness of the voice,
We love the richness of the tone,
It makes us sorrow or rejoice,
Compelling us its power to own.

Are there not words, too, strangely sweet,
Thoughts, musings, memories, strangely dear?
So lovingly the soul they greet,
So gently steal they on the ear!

Common the words may be and weak,

The passing stranger owns them not,

To other ears in vain they speak,

Unknown, unrelished, or forgot

Rich in old thoughts, these words appear, Part of our being's mighty whole, Linked with our life's strange story here, Knit to each feeling of our soul

Linked with the scenes of days gone past,
With all life's earnest hopes and fears,
Linked with the smiles that did not last,
The joys and griefs of faded years

d with old dreams once dreamt in youth,
When dreams were gladder, truer things
When each night's vision of bright truth,
Lent to each buoyant day its wings

Linked with the whisper of the trees,
When summer-eves were fair and still;
Set to the music of the breeze,
Or naurmur of the twilight rill

I mked with some scene of sacred calm,
Of holy places, holy days,
Linked with the prayer, the hymn, the psalm,
The multitude's glad voice of praise

Linked with the names of holy men, Martyr, or saint, or brother dear, Some parted, ne'er to meet again, Some still our fellow-pilgrims here

Linked with that name of names, the name
Of Him who bought us with his blood,
Who bore for us the wrath and shame,
The Virgin's Son, the Christ of God.

THE PRAYER

Frich me the lightning from you frowning cloud With fiery force to break or melt this heart,

A heart all earthly, foolish, vain, and proud,
In unbelief and hate that bids its God depart

Fetch me a beam from you clear star of night,
Or yet a warmer ray from day's bright sun,
To knidle into heat, and glow, and light,
This soul of gloom and death, whose day seems scarce begun.

Fetch me a drop from you translucent lake,
Or, faither up, from you pure mountain-well,
These hips to cool, this feverish thirst to slake,
This weary frame to freshen, these fierce fires to queil

O thou my God, my being's health and source,
Better than life, brighter than noon to me,
Stretch out thy loving hand, with gentle force,
Bend this still-struggling will, and draw it after Thee.

Return to me, my off-forgotten God,

My spirit's time tho' long forsaken rest.

Undo these birs re-enter thine abode

In Thes and in Thy love alone would I be blest

Re-mould this inner man in every part

Re-knit these broken ties, re ume thy sway,

Take, as Thy throne and altar, this poor heart,

Oh teach me how to lave, oh help me to obey!

THE RESURRECTION OF THE JUST

Autuwn has come at last, and nature now
Binds up her summer tresses and disrobes.
That she may key herself in silence down
Upon her winter's couch, and there by sleep
Repair her worn-out energies, and draw
New life into her venis, that when the sun
Flames out again, and the long-silent voice
Of happy birds and happier children wakes
Spring's first glad matin song, she may arise
Girt with new strength and with tresh beauty clothed

Thus comes life's autumn, and the happy spirit,
Calmly disrobing, lays its garments down,
Upon the leaf-strewn soil of this old earth,
Committing them, in quiet confidence,
To the safe keeping of the trusty tomb,
Till death's brief winter shall have passed away
Then these old robes, with which she walked the earth.
Purged from each stein of vile mortality

By the all-cleaning winter of the grave,
And blanch'd to glorious whiteness by its gloom,
Shall whine in fairer, fresher purity,
When early s long-promised spring at last arrives,
And the unsetting sun smiles down in peace
Oer a new Paradise of love and joy.

THE CITY

Thou art ne-child of the city!

Hadst thou known it as I have done,

Thou would'st not have smiled with pity,

As if joy were with thee alone,

With thee the unfetter'd ranger
Of the forest and moorland free;
\u00e4 if gloom and toil and danger
Could alone in a city be

The smoke, the dun, and the bustle
Of the city, I know them well,
And I know the gentle rustle
Of the leaves in your breezy dell.

Day's hurry and evening's riot,
In the city I know them all;
I know too the loving quiet,
Oi your glen at the day's sweet fall.

I know too each grim old alley,

With the blanch'd ray flickering through;
I know each sweep of your valley,
Whole the rosy light dies in dev

I know too the stifling sadness.

Of the summer-noon's sultry street,

I've breathed the air of your gladness,

Where the streams and the breezes meet

I know the dun haunts of fever,
Where the blossoms of youth decay,
I know where your free broad river
Sweeps disease on its breast away

Yet despite your earnest pity,
And despite its own smoke and din,
I cling to you crowded city,
Though I shrink from its woe and sin.

For I know its boundless measure, Of the true, and the good, and fair, Its vast and far gathered treasure, All the wealth of soul that is there You may smile, or sneer, or pity,
You may funcy it weak and strange,
My eye to you smoky city,
Still returns from its widest range.

My heart, in its inmost boatings
Ever lingers around its homes.

My soul wakes up in its greetings,
To the gleam of its spires and domes

You call it life's weary common,

At the best but an idle fair,

The market of man and woman,—

But the choice of the race are there.

The wonders of life and gladness,
All the wonders of hope and fear,
The wonders of douth and sadness,
All the wonders of time are there

In your lone lake's still face yonder, By your rivulet's bursting glee, Deep truth I may read and ponder, Of the earth and its mystery.

There seems, in you city's motion,
Yet a mightier truth for me,
"Tis the sound of life's great occan,
"Tis the tides of the human sea.

O'er the fields of earth lie scattered, Noble fruitage and blossoms rare, You city the store has gathered, And the garner of hearts is there.

You may prize the lonely lustre
Of your pearl or emerald green,
What is that to the gorgeous cluster
On the brow of the crowned Queen?

And the home to which I'm hasting,

Is not in some silent gleu,

The place where my hopes are resting,

Is a city of living men

The crowds are thore, but the sadness
Is fled, with the toil and pain,
Nought is heard but the song of gladness,
'Tis the city of holy men

And wilt thou my sad fate pity,
Wilt thou grieve o'er my heavy doom,
When within that resplendent city,
I shall find my glorious home?
